SHRINERS EXPECT TO RAISE $60,000 BEFORE 6 TONIGHT

Twelve-Hour Canvass of Atlanta to Secure Entertainment Fund Will Begin This Morning.

1914 MEETING MEANS MILLIONS TO ATLANTA

Two Dozen Committees Have Charge of Work Today and They Have Arranged to Cover Every Section of City.

A new record for Atlanta is promised today.

The Shriners expect to raise $60,000 or more before 6 o'clock this evening.

In a twelve-hour canvass of the city, they will cinch the 1914 Shrine convention for Atlanta. The entertainment fund means the convention, according to Colonel F. J. Paxon, chairman of the Shriners' executive committee here; and there is no doubt about the fund. So say he and his fellow committeemen.

If you seek a man this morning, and his desk is shut and a sign is on his door, "Out for the day," you can be sure that he is one of the Shrine committeemen, and that he is out at work.

Conditions Ripe for Campaign.

The executive committee conferred Tuesday with the subchairmen and decided that conditions were too ripe to prolong the canvass.

W. S. Byck, of the Whitehall street committee, reported that his committee was going to do even more than had been assigned to it. It already had exceeded its task, said he, and yet was not finished.

W. M. Selcer told the chairman of the conference that everything wanted from his and his fellow workers was even then in sight.

Others reported similarly.

"It's just a matter of issuing the subscription slips and getting the signatures for all we want and more," the conference concluded.

A suggestion was crystallized among them.

"Make it a one-day campaign."

And they did so.

Whole Work Complete Today.

The word was sent out that between breakfast and supper today the whole work is to be completed. At 6 o'clock this afternoon the workers will gather in conference again at the Piedmont hotel, in the assembly room; and there they will finish their work.

"There is no question on earth but that we will do it," declared Forrest Adair, potentate of Yaarab temple, Tuesday afternoon.

"That fund is as good as complete now," said Colonel Paxon.

Every Shriner on the executive committee and among the sub-chairmen was equally confident.

"Atlanta is in the humor to do it. She is able to do it—and she will do it!"

That was the opinion among them. They were enthusiastic over the conditions that had risen in response to their work for Atlanta—conditions that anticipated, in fact, the actual circulation of the canvassers. Slips for the subscriptions were given out at the meeting Tuesday.

All Assurances Needed.

From every phase of Atlanta's commercial, industrial and social life the Shriners have assurances that all they have to do is ask, and they will receive; from merchants who deal in everything from dry goods to hams; from professional men, manufacturers, caterers, corporations; from the whole of Atlanta, in short.

The work of receiving the subscriptions starts with the commencement of business today. Some two dozen committees have the details in charge. To each of them is assigned a specific task. Each of them has sub-divided its field of activity. The entire movement is as well organized as an army's advance; is acting in as thorough accord and harmony as any of the Shrine patrols that will be drilling here a year hence.

Forrest Adair declares that by 6 o'clock this evening, when the committees report, everything will be over but the shouting. He and his fellow workers are thoroughly confident of winning the Shrine convention away from Memphis, and any other city; no matter how worthy, that bids for it. The opportunity is Atlanta's and she is about to seize upon it.

Atlanta Appreciates Convention.

"It seems as if Atlanta appreciates

THE advertisements in a good morning newspaper usually keep pace with the news in the paper, in completeness of information, up-to-dateness and reliability. Readers who prefer to read news that is completely told like advertising of the same sort---and they rarely find any other kind in a good morning newspaper. And The Constitution IS a good morning paper---as good as trained brains and complete facilities can make it.

WAR ON PALMISTS OPENED IN COUNCIL

After Tour of Gypsy Places of Business, Councilman Ashley Declares Them a Menace to Morals of City.

A far-reaching and sweeping crusade to rid Atlanta of gypsy palmists, clairvoyants and occult seers has been started in council.

In the role of detective, Councilman Claud L. Ashley, author of the famous segregation ordinance, made a tour of nearly every tent and temple in Atlanta Tuesday morning. Following his visit he made the startling statement that the men and women who practice on the wiles of credulous young girls and women are a greater menace to morals than "the houses."

Councilman Ashley made the further statement that he would ask Chief of Police J. L. Beavers to order down from the tent entrances the gaudy, greasy signs that stick out like circus side show posters to attract the unwary to the "mysterious realm within."

Introduced at Next Meeting.

The ordinance of Councilman Ashley has drafted has been approved by City Attorney James L. Mayson. It was to be introduced Monday afternoon, but council adjourned abruptly after a rather strenuous session. It is in the hands of City Clerk Walter Taylor to be introduced within two weeks.

Chairman Roy Abernathy, of the ordinance committee, will be asked to offer the ordinance at the next committee meeting.

The Atlanta Federation of Trades is the power behind the ordinance, according to Councilman Ashley. It will be vigorously fought, it is expected, by leaders of the itinerant craft who have made Atlanta a sort of headquarters for years.

Councilman Ashley says the trades federation has already started its fight, and half the battle is won. He claims to have been promised by more than half the members of council that they will support the ordinance.

"I think the crusade is just as necessary as any other anti-vice movement that has started recently," Councilman Ashley says.

May Ask Aid of Churches.

If it is found necessary, the churches will be asked to join in the crusade.

The ordinance Councilman Ashley has drafted does not seek to drive the gypsies from Atlanta, or to prevent them from engaging in a moral and legitimate business.

The state laws prohibit the practice of fortune-telling, and it is the purpose of the Ashley ordinance to put palmists, clairvoyants and seers in the same class as fortune-tellers. Under the state law and city ordinances, the practice of palmistry is allowed. The city collects an annual license tax of $100 from each place, and the state does the same thing.

Councilman Ashley's ordinance is an amendment to the fortune telling ordinance, in that it includes palmists, clairvoyants and seers, and others of the craft in the same category with the out-and-out fortune teller.

"I was appalled by the brazen manner in which these places are conducted," Councilman Ashley said after his visit to a number of gypsy queens, "and I am satisfied that they are a far greater menace to young girls and women than the immoral houses. I don't mean to say that they are all the same, but I do say that those I have visited has convinced me that Atlanta should get rid of them.

In Most Conspicuous Spots.

"What struck me particularly was that these people do business in the most conspicuous places in the city. Take Whitehall, for instance, you will find them there right in the path of young girls and women who are on their way to or from work. I notice that a great many have their greasy signs thrown up right in the path of the crowds.

"There are several on the viaduct and quite a few on the side streets. They are located right in the business sections. Forsyth street has them from one end to the other. You can find them even in Decatur street, where the negroes are preyed on."

Councilman Ashley says he has proof of instances where gypsies have wielded a strong influence over young girls and women who are foolish enough to believe their readings. He says that he knows of a young married woman whose home life has almost been wrecked because of her frequent visits to gypsy palmists.

Ministers Oppose Palmists.

Rev. H. M. DuBose, pastor of the First Methodist church; Rev. R. O. Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, agree with Councilman Ashley that gypsy palmists are a menace.

"They are practicing a disgrace and should be prevented from practicing," Dr. DuBose says. "The city should stop it at once."

Dr. Flinn also takes the view that the city should put a stop to the practice of palmistry. He says that there are many good people among the gypsies but he says those who practice palmistry are fakers.

Rev. L. O. Bricker, pastor of the First Christian church, says the practice of palmistry is dangerous.

"They are a lot of abominable grafters and should be suppressed," he says.

Nearly every minister in Atlanta has expressed himself as being positively in favor of a movement which will put an end to the practice.

Councilman Ashley believes his ordinance will be adopted at the next meeting of council. It is to become effective immediately.

DR. FRIEDMANN A FAKER SAYS BISHOP CANDLER

Anniston, Ala., April 8.—Before a large congregation at the First Methodist church Bishop Warren A. Candler, of Atlanta, speaking to the missionary conference, branded Dr. Friedmann, discoverer of an alleged cure for tuberculosis, a faker because he refused to give his secret to the world. Bishop Candler said if he knew how to cure consumption he would buy space if necessary to spread the information all over the world.

MERCHANTS TO HELP BOOST ATTENDANCE AT OPENING GAME

Crackers Are Certain They Will Capture Trophy for Best Opening Day Crowd This Year.

ALL BUSINESS MEN ARE TO LEND AID TO PROJECT

Champion Birmingham Barons Will Be Opponents of Crackers at Ponce de Leon Next Monday.

The Atlanta Baseball association intends to land the trophy offered by President William M. Kavanaugh for the largest paid attendance the opening day of the season.

And there are several reasons that can be given why Atlanta should capture this trophy and the honor that goes with such a capture—to be known as the best baseball town in the south.

Atlanta is already this, but if the local fans and merchants sit back and take things easy some other city will capture the coveted trophy and the glory.

In 1912 the attendance at the opening games in Birmingham and in Chattanooga surpassed the attendance figures locally, and caused the scribes of those cities to poke fun at Atlanta fandom throughout the season.

Stop Criticisms.

The same criticisms will be hurled at the local club and fans again this season unless there is an active campaign to make the attendance at the opening game of the season the greatest that the Southern league has ever witnessed.

Atlanta does not alone want to surpass Birmingham's record of last season. She wants to set a figure that all the clubs of the league can shoot at for time to come.

To accomplish this result it behooves the merchants of the city to get in back of the movement. If they cannot close their places of business for the afternoon, let them permit as many of their employees as is consistent with the maintenance of their wheels of industry to attend the game in a body.

The baseball association believes that in a city the size of Atlanta, it is out of the question to ask the merchants to close for the afternoon, as is the case in Chattanooga and other provincial towns of that size. All they ask is that their firm be represented by several of its employees at the game.

If every merchant in the city will permit a dozen or more of their clerks to attend the game Monday, the local club is confident that the attendance figures will roll up to such a figure as to surprise even the most exacting.

Wholesalers Consent.

Vice President Charles Nunnally, who is in the wholesale business in the city, is making a personal campaign of the wholesalers of the city to enlist their support in this cause. Mr. Nunnally has received the definite promise of several wholesalers to close their places of business for the afternoon, while those who thought it impracticable promised to allow as many of their employees as they could possibly spare an afternoon holiday to attend the pastime.

The Ad Men's club, one of the city's livest organizations, is right in behind the movement to make the attendance figures the biggest ever turned out in this league to an opening game.

This organization will have its hundreds of members make a personal canvass of all the retailers of the city to urge them to co-operate with the wholesalers in the movement.

The few retailers who were approached on the subject Tuesday readily assented to the plan. Every one heartily agreed with the Ad men that it behooves Atlanta to bestir herself and land this coveted glory.

Must Beat Birmingham.

Birmingham, the winner of last year's trophy, will be the city that Atlanta must beat to win the trophy this season. Birmingham opens the season at home Thursday with the Nashville club. The Birmingham Chamber of Commerce has fallen in behind the movement of the Birmingham club.

"The greatest crowd that ever attended a baseball game in the Southern league" is the slogan. They are working on a large scale in Slagville. Special excursions will be run into the city from nearby Alabama towns, the schools will close, and Birmingham merchants have practically as a unit agreed to close their places of business for the afternoon.

Birmingham's attendance opening day last season was a little over 7,000. The largest attendance at a game in the Southern league is held by Atlanta, when Memphis and Atlanta battled for the pennant, 11,100 being the figures for the Saturday game of that series.

These figures give Atlanta fans and merchants an idea of what they must do. A crowd that will surpass the 11,000 mark set here will win sure. It will do more than that. It will establish a league record that will stand for several years to come.

Atlanta fans should attend this game. Their favorite manager, the man they clamored for, is back on the job. He asks as a personal favor that you get behind the movement. He gave you two pennants, the only ones Atlanta ever had. This is the first favor he has ever asked. Will you grant it?

Billy Wants Crowd.

Bill has a great ball club for you to look at. "It's the best ball team I ever managed in the Southern league," is Bill's own opinion of the team.

Last year's champions, the Birmingham Barons, will be the attraction at the park Monday, our opening day. This should be a further attraction to local fans to witness the game.

The Barons were always popular here, and should be more so this year after winning the pennant. They are being picked to win again this season. Go out and see how Bill's club compares with them. A personal observation will convince you whether Atlanta or Birmingham stands the best chance for the pennant this season.

All together. The ad men, the merchants, the manufacturers, the retailers, the wholesalers and the school children. Let's make the local opening day attendance 15,000. There are that many true fans in the city. There are more than that, but it behooves us to assemble as many of them as we can at one time, and Monday is the time.

GRAVE FEARS FELT FOR LIFE OF POPE PIUS X

LATEST PICTURE of POPE PIUS X

The head of the Roman Catholic church has suffered a relapse, and it is said in Rome that there is the gravest anxiety in regard to his condition. It is stated that the pope is suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys, and that there is no hope of his ultimate recovery.

ACQUITTED OF KILLING WRECKER OF HIS HOME

Prof. Olson, Who Slew Wife's Paramour, Goes Free Under the "Unwritten Law."

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—The jury in the case of Professor Oscar M. Olson, formerly of the University of Minnesota farm school, charged with the murder of Clyde N. Darling, alleged wrecker of the Olson home, returned a verdict of not guilty at 8:35 tonight.

The jury had been out since 5 o'clock this afternoon, and at 7:40 tonight the foreman announced that a verdict had been reached. Judge Orr was called, arriving nearly an hour later. As the words of "not guilty" fell from the lips of the foreman, Olson, who had been brought to the courtroom, attempted to rise, but dropped back into his seat. He recovered his composure, and with tear-dimmed eyes shook hands with the jurors, the judge and the newspaper men.

"There is going to be a happy reunion at the Olson home tonight," was all Professor Olson would say as he started for his home, where his coming was being awaited by his wife and little daughter. Professor Olson had not seen his daughter since his arrest, the night of the shooting.

In April, 1911, Darling, a laundry wagon driver, began paying Mrs. Olson attentions. Her husband was out of the city much of the time. After secret meetings had been going on for nearly a year her conscience began troubling her.

According to the testimony, she begged Darling to stay away from her. He refused. When she threatened to tell her husband all, he replied that she wouldn't dare, and kept her in fear by threatening the life of her husband, she testified.

Finally she made a confession to her husband. She did not tell everything, but enough to have him warn Darling to stay away. Later, she revealed the entire story of Professor Olson. On March 5, Professor Olson returned from a trip over the state. Mrs. Olson was in Montevideo, visiting, and had intended returning that day. It was late at night. Olson was half dozing when he heard a sound in the yard. He went to a window and saw a figure approaching the back door, according to his testimony. He took his revolver and waited. As the door opened Olson fired two shots. Both bullets went through the right lung of Darling.

The trial lasted six days. Mrs. Olson told her story from beginning to end. At the end of her testimony she collapsed.

CANAL TOLL QUESTION AGAIN UP TO CONGRESS

Washington, April 8.—The Panama canal toll question has reappeared in congress. Senator Root has reintroduced his bill of last session for repeal of that provision of the new Panama canal law which would permit American coastwise ships to enjoy freedom from toll charges.

The measure has been referred to the committee now headed by Senator O'Gorman, of New York, who led the fight in the last congress against the Root proposal. It is expected that the tolls question will be forced upon the attention of congress at an early date in an effort to once more try to repeal the free toll provision before the canal is opened for traffic.

I'M NO MORE USE, SAYS POPE PIUS X

Roman Pontiff Is Much Depressed by His Illness—His Condition Causes Anxiety. Is Allowed to See No One.

Rome, April 9, 1 a. m.—The physician in attendance on the pope throughout the night reported that at midnight the pope's temperature showed a slight rise. This, however, does not prevent the patient from getting a fair amount of sleep.

Rome, April 8.—Pope Pius X has suffered a relapse, and, as is usual in relapses, his condition is considered graver than that occasioned by his illness of last month. The present attack began with a fainting fit, and Professor Marchiafava, the papal physician, was summoned late last night. He visited the pontiff again early this morning and several times during the day.

The official statement given out at the vatican simply says:

The Osservatore Romano, the vatican organ, published the following official statement this evening:

"Since yesterday evening the holy father has been indisposed with a relapse of influenza. His condition is causing no anxiety, but he requires much rest."

Causing Great Anxiety.

The truth is that the pope's relapse is causing great anxiety, for it was not expected, and for the further reason that at his advanced age there is the ever present danger of his being unable to withstand the drain on his strength. During his recent illness the pope was much depressed, but as he regained his health this distressing sympton disappeared.

With the return of the influenza, depression is one of the symptoms that has again been manifested.

Today the temperature reached a little over one hundred fahrenheit, which in itself is not at all alarming, but the heart showed weakness and there was evidences of kidney trouble. The condition known as albuminuria, which frequently accompanies influenza, is present, indicating nephritis, or inflammation of the kidneys.

At a late hour tonight the pope's condition was said to have materially improved, partly because he had remained in bed all day and, with the exception of Cardinal Merry Del Val, the papal secretary of state, his sisters and a niece, had received no visitors.

Professor Marchiafava, in an interview tonight, said that the alarm was not justified. He expressed the hope that the attending physicians would be able to overcome the disease quickly, if the pontiff were allowed complete rest.

Long a Sufferer From Gout.

For years the pope has suffered from gout with uraemic symptoms and fainting spells, the latter gradually increasing in intensity and frequency.

It must be remembered, however, that only a few days after his election to the pontificate, Pope Pius fainted in the Pauline chapel while hearing mass. If the pope recovers from the present attack, it is announced, he must definitely abandon all fatiguing ceremonies, even audiences, which, the doctors declare, in his condition, would result in grave consequences.

The pope manifested deep grief when informed that he must suspend all audiences, as he was to have received today 1,500 pilgrims, including a large number from the Venetian provinces, of whom some came from the diocese of Treviso, in which the pope's birthplace is located and from Salzano, where he officiated as a parish priest.

Frequently during the day he repeated how sorry he was not to see so many old friends, adding, with a melancholy touch in the Venetian dialect:

"I am no more use, either to myself or others."

LIEUT. REX CHANDLER BRAVES AIR AND DIES

Coast Artillery Officer Killed When Hydro-Aeroplane Falls. Lieut. Brereton Is Injured.

San Diego, Cal., April 8.—Lieutenant Rex Chandler, coast artillery corps, U. S. A., was instantly killed this morning and Lieutenant Lewis H. Brereton, U. S. A., was badly hurt in the fall of a hydro-aeroplane in the bay.

The accident occurred shortly before noon near Fort Rosecrans. Boats brought the dead and injured men to shore. So far no explanation of the accident had been obtainable.

Lieutenant Brereton with Lieutenant Chandler as his passenger, started from the army aviation school on North Island at 10 o'clock this morning. Some time afterwards their plane plunged almost straight down from a height of 100 feet.

Aviation Deadly to Army Men.

Washington, April 8.—Brigadier-General Allen, chief signal officer of the army, was notified tonight of the death of Lieutenant Rex Chandler and the slight injury of Lieutenant Lewis H. Brereton, at San Diego, Cal., as a result of a fall of their hydro-aeroplane there today. The dispatch asked that Lieutenant Chandler's father, Joy Chandler, of Gerome, Mich., be notified of his son's death.

With the death of Lieutenant Chandler, army aviation has exacted a toll of eight lives, six commissioned officers and two instructors. The list of fatalities follows:

Lieutenant L. C. Rockwell, killed when a plane refused to work at College Park, Md., September 26, 1912.

Lieutenant Leighton W. Hazlehurst, plunged to death when wing of machine crumpled at College Park, June 12, 1912.

A. L. Welsh, professional instructor, killed in fall with Lieutenant Hazlehurst.

Lieutenant E. M. Selly, ground to death beneath his aeroplane when he struck ground too hard upon landing at San Antonio, Tex., May 1 1911.

Lieutenant Thomas E. Selfridge, dashed to death at Fort Meyer, Va., September 17, 1908, while flying with Orville Wright, who had his leg broken in the fall.

SCHOOLBOY KILLED NEAR SPOT WHERE FATHER MET DEATH

Dolphus Casey Run Down by Auto Driven by Earl H. Dell, While He Was on a Demonstration Trip.

CAR GOING RAPIDLY SAYS MRS. J. R. GRAY

"If That Man Had Just Blown Horn," Sobs Alice May Casey, "D. B. Would Never Have Been Killed."

Dolphus Casey, an 8-year-old boy, was run down and instantly killed yesterday afternoon on Peachtree road in front of beautiful Graystone, the home of James R. Gray, by Earl H. Dell while he was demonstrating a machine.

The accident occurred at 3 o'clock while young Casey, his sister, Alice May, aged 13, and Gladys Donaldson, aged 12, were returning from school, and, by a coincidence, it was within 200 yards of where, on May 15, 1910, R. H. H. Casey, the boy's father, was killed by falling from a street car.

Various accounts are given of the accident. Dell, who is now in the Tower held on $5,000 bond charging murder, is prostrated and in such a nervous condition that he can hardly discuss the affair. All that he could say was that he was running about twelve or sixteen miles an hour, and that the boy while playing tag in the road with the two girls dashed in front of his machine and was crushed to death.

"Driving at a High Speed."

Mrs. James R. Gray stated to County Officer John McCrary that she saw the car just before it struck the lad, and that Dell was driving at high speed. She made no attempt to estimate the speed, according to the officer, except to say that the pace of the car was exceedingly rapid.

Alice May Casey, the little girl who was with her brother, declares that the machine was going at a rapid rate and was on the left side of the road.

"If that man had just blown his horn," she sobbed out, "D. B. would never have been killed. He didn't know the car was coming and Gladys and I didn't hear it either."

When the car struck the boy, Dell jumped out and picked the crushed form up in his arms and bore it to the lawn of beautiful Graystone. By the time that he laid the boy on the grass he was dead. Mrs. Gray and her daughter rushed from the front porch and Huckabee, a white man employed to drive the Gray's car, followed them into the street.

Goes Back to His Car.

Dell saw that the boy was dead and with a gasp at his deed rushed back to the car. According to the little girl, Huckabee believed that Dell was going to leave and sprang in front of the machine to prevent him.

There was a woman passenger in the car at the time of the accident. She left, boarded a passing street car and reached town before the police officers reached the scene. Dell at first refused to give her name, but later told the county officials she was a Mrs. Brush, of Peachtree Inn. Mrs. James Brush, only Mrs. Brush at the inn last night, denied she had been in the machine, when questioned by a Constitution reporter. She said she had been at home all afternoon.

County Officers McCrary and George Mathieson were called and on their arrival placed Dell under arrest. He was taken before Justice C. H. Giradeau and there Officer McCrary swore out a warrant against him for murder. Dell was unable to make the bond of $5,000 and was placed in the tower. Later his condition became such that he had to be transferred to the hospital ward and given medical attention.

Mrs. Gray sent her machine out, and in it her daughter carried the little Casey girl to her home on Wesley avenue a mile and a half from the scene of the accident. Gladys Donaldson, who was with the Casey children on their way home from Hope school at Buckhead, is the daughter of Sylvanus Donaldson.

Mrs. Casey became prostrated when friends bore to her home the body of her little boy. She has apparently never recovered from the tragic death of her husband, and it was feared that the second blow would be fatal to her.

No Other Machine Passing.

It is stated by county officers who gathered information from the Grays and from the two little girls, that no other machine was passing at the time of the accident, but that the only other witness is a negro man, who passed by on horseback at the time, but did not stop. The negro is being searched for as a material witness.

Mrs. Casey has six other children besides the lad who was killed. Her home is with her step-father, John Wright, on Wesley avenue just across the way from the palatial home of General Clifford L. Anderson.

The remaining Casey children are: Frank, aged 16; Nina, aged 14; Alice May, aged 13; John Howard, aged 10; Harry, aged five and Wiley, aged 3, whose birth came about the time that his father was killed.

The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock from the Baptist church at Buckhead, Rev. Mr. Peacock officiating, and interment will be in Sardis cemetery.

FESTIVAL CHORUS WILL SING SUNDAY

Many delightful part songs by Atlanta's festival chorus of 300 voices, will be sung at the fifth concert of the chorus Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Auditorium under the direction of Dr. Percy J. Starnes, the eminent organist and choir master. On the program will be "Cherry Ripe," "Shough and the Crow," "Joyous Roundelay," "Minstrel Boy" and "Crossing the Bar."

Suffrage for Women.

Washington, April 8.—Suffrage for women, by an amendment to the federal constitution, was proposed in a joint resolution introduced today by Representative Raker, of California.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes anyone so.

But thousands of irritable, nervous, tired and broken-down women have restored their health and strength by the use of Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

Swamp-Root brings new life and activity to the kidneys, the cause of such troubles.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, may address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and receive sample bottle free by mail. You can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at all drug stores.

HILLS ARE COMBED FOR AUTO BANDITS

Hounds Close Behind Yeggs Who Looted Summerville Bank of Over $3,000 and Shot Two Men.

Rome, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—Sheriffs' posses of three counties—Floyd, Chattooga and Walker, Detective M. S. Baughn, of the Burns agency, in Atlanta: Chattanooga officers and bloodhounds and hundreds of armed citizens are combing the hills of Chattooga this evening for the gang of auto bandits who, at an early hour this morning, dynamited the vaults of the Bank of Commerce, of Summerville, and fought a running battle with the citizens, wounding Steve Garrett, painfully and Deputy Sheriff Will Alexander seriously.

Rumors this afternoon that one of the bandits had been slain and others captured proved incorrect, but telephone messages received at Summerville soon after dark stated that three of the men had been seen on the ridges east of Trion just before dark and several shots were exchanged between the outlaws and the officers, but no one was hurt. The yeggs were headed toward Lafayette.

All Ronds Guarded.

Every road in northwest Georgia is being closely guarded tonight and officers state that they will effect a capture after daylight. Bloodhounds are close on the trail of the escaping men, who are believed to have scattered when they abandoned their machine and took to the hills.

The bandits blew up the bank early today, robbing the safe of $3,000 in cash, valuable securities and several hundred dollars in stamps.

The robbers escaped in a waiting motor car after a desperate battle with Deputy Sheriff Will Alexander and Stephen Garrett, a business man, in which the two latter men were badly wounded.

Practically the entire population of the little town of 2,500 people was aroused by the deafening explosion of dynamite soon after 1 o'clock this morning. Among the first to rush to the scene, Alexander and Garrett met the burglars coming from the bank with their loot. They opened fire and in the pistol duel that followed both were shot.

A posse was organized to pursue the robbers in their automobile. Assisted by bloodhounds, the pursuers kept the trail as far as Gore, Ga., where it was lost. The search for the bandits is being continued over all the hills of north Georgia.

Many telephone wires leading to Summerville were cut by the bandits before the robbery and communication with the outside world is extremely difficult. This showed that the robbery had been planned carefully. At least five men were in the pary.

Guards Were Posted.

Guards were stationed at the four corners of the public square to head off the citizens who might rush to the building before the thieves got away. The explosion was terrific and people were thrown from their beds, while the big vault was completely wrecked. The Bank of Commerce is one of the strongest in this section. John S. Cleghorn is president, and N. K. Bitting, cashier. The bank will not be affected by the loss and will continue operations.

Stephen Garrett, who was wounded in a pitched battle with the bandits, was brought to a Rome hospital for treatment this morning. He is shot in the hand and shoulder, but will recover.

Latest reports are that the robbers and pursuing posses have both abandoned automobiles on account of impassable trails, and are in the woods in the wild country above Gore.

It is believed that the robbers are making for Dalton, as the roads leading to Rome and Chattanooga are guarded. Bloodhounds from Chattanooga and Rome are being used in the chase. The Rome officers, armed with riot guns, left here this morning to join the pursuit. The posse is said to be close behind the robbers, and their capture is expected before morning.

Banks Are Merged.

Lynchburg, Va., April 8.—The Lynchburg National and National Exchange banks consolidated today under the charter of the former, which has been amended to provide for increased capital of $500,000, with a like surplus.

AMERICAN GIRL FREED FROM ENGLISH PRISON

Miss Zelie Emerson, Who Was Forcibly Fed, Is Taken to Hospital by Her Mother.

London, April 8.—Miss Zelie Emerson, a suffragette of Jackson, Mich, was released from Holloway jail at 9 o'clock tonight. She was taken by her mother to a nursing home where she will be given medical treatment. Mrs. Emerson feels grave anxiety for her daughter's condition and will not permit her to see anyone.

Certain of the more militant friends of Miss Emerson, including a number of Americans, who were displeased at Mrs. Emerson's abandoning the campaign to force intervention by the American embassy, planned to take away the daughter without her mother's knowledge in an automobile, so that they might get an interview without the mother's moderating influence.

The militants placed a relay of pickets to watch for Miss Emerson when she left the prison, but were forestalled by her unexpected early release. The home secretary had announced that she would be set at liberty tomorrow. Mrs. Emerson had been informed of the date of her daughter's release by the American embassy. She took her immediately to a hospital where physicians isolated her.

The more radical among the Americans held the belief that the case offered a chance to make the question of forcible feeding an international matter while the militants generally welcomed it as another opportunity for getting the government into hot water.

The more moderate members of the Woman's Social and Political Union, including their attorney, support Mrs. Emerson and some of her American friends in their opinion that Home Secretary McKenna has made an extraordinary concession to an American suffragette.

Miss Emerson, who was taken from the jail in a motor ambulance, was cheered by a large number of suffragettes who had gathered in momentary expectation of the release of Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst.

BAR THE IMMIGRANTS, URGES RODDENBERY

Georgian Introduces Radical Bill Against Aliens—Georgia Visitors at the Capital.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, April 8.—(Special.)—Representative Roddenbery, of Georgia, introduced a radical immigration bill today which will restrict the influx of aliens by imposing a literary test, a $25 head tax and the requirement that each alien must have $100 in his pocket. The present head tax is only $4 and Mr. Roddenbery says this is paid by the steamship companies. Quoting the report of the immigration commission, he said our immigraton laws were woefully inadequate as compared with those of Canada, Australia, Natal, Cape Colony and New Zealand. Weak laws and feeble administrative policy account for many undesirable immigrants coming to these shores, he said.

Colonel Ed. T. Brown, of Atlanta, was in the president's row in the reserved gallery today, having accompanied Mrs Woodrow Wilson to the capitol to hear the president's address, the first ever delivered by a president to congress since 1800.

Walter P. Andrews, who is expected to be named consul general to Paris, was also here today.

Robert Hull, of Savannah, a brother of Joseph Hull, was here to urge his claims for appointment as collector of customs at Savannah.

D. B. Bullard, of Palmetto, is here seeking appointment in the consular service.

"GUNMEN" ARE FEARED BY TENNESSEE SOLONS

Resolution to Search All Persons Entering the Senate Chamber for Fire Arms.

Nashville, Tenn., April 8.—A resolution was introduced in the senate today by Senator Fisher, of Shelby county, directing the sergeant-at-arms to search persons entering the senate chamber for firearms. The resolution directs the speaker to deny any person admission to the halls of the senate who is armed. The resolution under the rules lies over.

In the resolution it is stated that certain armed persons have frequented the senate chamber within the past week and that their presence is an affront to members of the senate which is declared to be a peaceful body.

DEMOCRATS SEEK TARIFF HARMONY

Efforts Made to Adjust Differences So as to Insure Speedy Passage of Revision Bill—May Be Subdivided.

Washington, April 8.—The fight for democratic tariff revision began in congress today. Conferences and party plans, which have held the stage for weeks past, gave way to the first open steps for passage of the new tariff bill.

President Wilson's personally delivered message, calling upon his party assistants in both houses to speedily enact the party's pledges of traiff revision, was followed by a caucus of democratic house members which will continue for several days and in which democrats will attempt to settle their differences and agree upon support of the Underwood bill.

Features of Bill Criticised.

Criticism of many features of the measure developed during the day in democratic circles in the senate. In a short caucus of senate democrats held to consider other matters, criticism was voiced by one or two senators against the wool provision and the sugar schedule proposing free sugar in 1916.

House democrats settled none of the tariff questions today. The three-hour caucus session was devoted to an unsuccessful fight to throw the doors open to the public, a proposal defeated by a vote of 167 to 84. Details of the new tariff bill will be taken up tomorrow.

Senate leaders still are insistent that the Underwood bill be subdivided so that separate votes may be had, if desired, upon the sugar and wool schedules. One plan that has been proposed to President Wilson is that schedules be grouped in such a way that the tariff will be comprised in four separate measures. These proposals are based on a growing belief that opponents of the sugar and wool provisions may muster strength enough to threaten defeat of the bill.

Many progressive republican senators expressed their opposition to the democratic bill because of the sweeping character of its proposed reductions. The democrats are counting little, if any, on any progressive support in the senate should tariff revision go before that body as a single bill.

Underwood Opposes Open Caucus.

In the house caucus, Representative Palmer, the chairman, made a vehement plea for letting the public know what its representatives are doing, aligning himself with President Wilson's expressed attitude in favor of throwing all these meetings open. He was supported by Representatives Carlin of Virginia, Shackelford of Missouri, Thompson and Murray of Oklahoma, L'Engle of Florida, and others. Mr. Palmer contended that in its consideration of the tariff the caucus would be transacting legislative business important to everyone; that when the caucus did, the house would do, and, therefore, the real tariff legislation would be in progress in the caucus.

Democratic Leader Underwood opposed the open caucus. He said it was only a family council within the party and that it would be a mistake to have the differing views exploited in public. Representatives Fitzgerald of New York, Sherley and Thomas of Kentucky, Heflin of Alabama, Saunders of Virginia, and others joined in this view. The opposition centered mainly on maintenance of party regularity and the probability of secret preliminary conferences if the doors were opened.

Tomorrow the caucus probably will adopt the ways and means committee majority recommendations for the only committees to be created at this time and will reach the tariff program with the new tariff handbooks possessed by every member.

The New Committees Recommended

The new committees as recommended by the leaders of the three parties follow.

Ways and Means—Underwood, Alabama, chairman; Harrison, New York; Shackelford, Missouri; Kitchin, North Carolina; Rainey, Illinois; Dixon, Indiana; Hull, Tennessee; Hammond, Minnesota; Peters, Massachusetts; Palmer, Pennsylvania; Ansberry, Ohio; Gardner, Texas; Stanley, Kentucky; Collier, Mississippi, democrats; Payne, New York; Fordney, Michigan; Gardner, Massachusetts; Moore, Pennsylvania; Anderson, Minnesota; Greene, Iowa, republicans; Murdock, Kansas, progressive.

Rules—Henry, Texas, chairman; Pou, North Carolina; Hardwick, Georgia; Garrett, Tennessee; Foster, Illinois; Cantrill, Kentucky; Conry, New York democrats. Campbell, Kansas; Lenroot, Wisconsine; Merrit, New York, republicans. Candler, New York, progressive.

Accounts—Lloyd, Missouri, chairman; Smith, Texas; Hamil, New Jersey; Underhill, New York; Kendell, Colorado; Howard, Georgia; Abercrombie, Alabama, democrats. Hughes, West Virginia; Griest, Pennsylvania; Parker, New York, republicans. Woodruff, Michigan (progressive).

Mileage—Bailey, Pennsylvania, chairman.

Enrolled Bills — Whitacre, Ohio, chairman.

The democratic majority of the house commitee on ways and means will meet tomorrow to consider a tariff program to be recommended to the caucus.

Republicans to Attack Bill.

It was learned today that the republicans of the committee in their minority report, to be submitted when the committee reports the tariff bill, will declare that the democratic measure is restrogressive and appears to be unanimously approved abroad; that some of the rates in the bill provide incidental protection instead of being solely for revenue purposes and will attack the change of the present rates to an ad valorem basis as being in conflict with the experience of all the great countries of the world except one. They will insist that the new bill would reverse the government's whole policy; that the Payne-Aldrich law now in operation can raise all the revenue needed to meet government demands; that the democratic plant would involve a deficit of $100,000,000 that would have to be met by war-time taxation methods and that without the present maximum and minimum clause it would not be possible for President Wilson to get tariff concessions from foreign countries.

AGED COUPLE FLEE FROM BURNING HOME

Tallapoosa, Ga., April 8.—(Special.) The home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Lewis, an aged couple residing a short distance east of town, was burned at an early hour this morning. The people were sleeping in the house at the time and awoke only to escape with their lives. They were forced to flee in their night clothing and everything they had was destroyed.

The house was a large one and its loss, together with the contents, is quite heavy. The origin of the fire is unknown.

GETS HERE TODAY.

LUTHER J. GLENN.

He must answer to charges of abandonment and adultery, preferred by his wife. Mrs. C. W. Pidcock, with whom Glenn eloped, is also expected in Atlanta today.

PRAYER GUIDED HER SAYS MRS. PIDCOCK

Her Last Letter to Husband Introduced at Divorce Trial at Moultrie.

Moultrie, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—The case of C. W. Pidcock v. his wife Ione Reed Pidcock, was called in Colquitt superior court this morning, and a verdict granting to him a total divorce with the right to remarry was returned by the jury. The jury refused to remove her disabilities and, therefore, she will not have the right to remarry.

The plaintiff alleged cruel treatment as the grounds of divorce. He showed by testimony that they separated in March, of last year, and during the early spring an attempt at reconciliation was partially successful, and that it was not entirely so was probably due to the fact that she met L. J. Glenn, who was engaged in the construction of a home in this city for Mrs. Pidcock.

Letter Offered in Evidence.

On July 22, she wrote Mr. Pidcock the following letter:

"Moultrie, Ga., July 22, 1912.

My Dear C. W.—Your two letters are now before me for answering; the first one came in on Friday, and the last one yesterday.

"You know I am slow in times like this, and I wanted plenty of time to consider everything from a prayerful standpoint. Well, I have thoroughly weighed everything, and prayed over this more than over anything in my life, and I want you to know and feel that what I am doing is in direct answer to my prayers.

"I am sure I appreciate all that you promise to do for me, and I am also sure that you do it through the kindness of your heart, but, C. W., we must remain as we are. Our ways lie widely apart and I would be doing you a serious injury not to say so. There is no use to discuss minor details. The truth is you want and need love in your life, and I haven't it to give you. I explained to you in Atlanta how it was, but I told you I could do my duty, and, of course, I could yet, but I see a duty for me that is strong and impelling, one that I know God wants me to do. For such a long time I have felt under a spiritual cloud and therefore could not see clearly our Father's guiding hand in my life.

"Now I see so differently, and though my future will not be along a path of either ease or material wealth, it will be spent in the service of others and be useful, as it has never been before. Now let me say I have the kindest of feelings for you and want your friendship always. I am glad you will give this to me, and in return I will always wish you well, and, above all, may you find yet in life love and happiness. This I could never give you, and please don't ever bring the subject up again.

"Now, C. W., our ways are separate and whatever plans you have for the future I wish you all kinds of success, and, in conclusion, let me say goodby, and God bless you from one who will always appreciate your considerate friendship.

"IONE REED PIDCOCK."

Pidcock Shortens Trip.

This letter was received by Mr. Pidcock on July 28 at Portland, Ore., and shortly afterwards he returned to Moultrie, shortening his trip about a month. Upon his arrival in Moultrie he immediately filed suit for divorce and set up this letter as his grounds for cruel treatment.

A week after the filing of divorce proceedings Mrs. Pidcock left Moultrie, ostensibly to visit a friend, Mrs. Phelps, in Dallas, Texas.

Mr. Pidcock had received some intimation of his wife's infatuation for Glenn and the morning she left Moultrie he followed her to the train and urged that she do nothing rash or that which would in any manner compromise herself. This was the last time he saw her.

In a statement issued this morning after the granting of the divorce Mr. Pidcock stated that he was in no way responsible for the criminal proceedings brought against Glenn, nor would he become involved in any phase of the case.

It is understood that an indictment against Glenn for a violation of the white slave act will be procured when the federal grand jury meets in Albany in June and that his trial will take place in that city.

Mrs. C. W. Pidcock and Luther J. Glenn, the man with whom she eloped last summer, are due to arrive here at 10:30 o'clock this morning from New Orleans.

Following the discovery of the couple in Houston, Texas, Glenn was ordered arrested on charge of abandoning minor children and he is being brought back in charge of an Atlanta officer. Mrs. Pidcock is with her father, S. W. Reed, of Moultrie, who went after her, according to dispatches received from the Texas city.

It was thought possible that the couple would arrive last night on the 11:40 p. m. train of the Atlanta and West Point, but their arrival was not reported, and it is understood that they will come on the next train, due here this morning.

CHEAPER SCHOOL BOOKS PROPOSED

Representative McCrory, of Schley, Has Plan to Save School Children of Georgia Thousands of Dollars.

The school children of Georgia will get books at a very much smaller cost and the people of the state who have children attending the county schools will be saved thousands of dollars if a bill to be introduced in the legislature this summer by Representative C. R. McCrory, of Schley county, is adopted. So states the author of the bill.

Mr. McCrory's bill provides that all books taught in the public schools of the state shall be published by the state or let to the lowest bidder and be furnished to the school children of Georgia at actual cost.

Mr. McCrory has been making some investigations with the result that he believes such a bill as he will present to the legislature will be a great boon to the people of the state who have children to educate.

He says that in the province of Ontario the copyright on each book taught in the public schools is owned by the province, and one of the good results is that a reader, such as is used in the Georgia schools, and cost 30 cents, is now bought for 6 cents; spelling or wordbooks that now cost the people of Georgia from 20 to 30 cents, are sold in Ontario for only 4 cents, and copy books are sold for 1 cent each.

Another feature in Mr. Conroy's bill is that all school books will be uniform so that it will not be necessary for patrons moving from one place to another to buy new books.

The Georgia reports are used by Mr. McCrory to illustrate what he contends for his bill. He says that the copyright of the supreme court reports from volume one to sixty-five was vested in the supreme court reporter and the purchaser had to pay an average price of $7. In 1872, he states, when the law was changed the copyright was vested in the state of Georgia, and from then until now, the reports are sold at $1.50 each.

"If the question is asked," states Mr. McCrory, "who will write the school books, my reply will be that the duties of the state school superintendent can be enlarged, and the preparation of the school books be placed in his hands. By this means the authors will be largely Georgians, which will insure the books being such as will be specially adapted for our boys and girls."

Mr. McCrory believes his bill will meet with favor and be adopted.

AS A HUMAN BEING TO HUMAN BEINGS WILSON TALKED

By Appearing Before Congress President Abridged the Gap That Has Long Separated Pilots of Public Business.

CONGRESS PLEASED; WILSON DELIGHTED

President Was Applauded When He Appeared and When He Left—A Great Crowd Packed Galleries.

Washington, April 8.—President Wilson today abridged the gap that for over a century has separated the pilots of public business—the executive and legislative branches of the government. Not as a cog in a machine, not as an impersonal political entity, nor as a mere department of government, but as the human president—he went to congress to speak about the tariff.

As Human Being to Human Being.

Standing before the senate and house in joint session as no other president had done for more than 112 years, President Wilson stated simply and tersely what he thought should be done for the welfare of the country, and asked his legislative colleagues, man to man, to aid in keeping the pledges of their party.

With a sweep of decision that shattered precedent the president brushed aside all imaginary boundaries between congress and the excutive office and rescued himself, as he expressed it, from that "isolated island of jealous authority," which the presidency had come to be regarded.

Congress, somewhat startled the other day when it heard that the president had determined to deliver his message by word of mouth, had prepared for a ceremony of unusual importance and such it was; yet when President Wilson arrived in the midst of the great assemblage, riding through throngs of cheering people in the streets, and, later, looking up into galleries crowded with privileged ticket holders, he seemed after all what he said he was, "a human being trying to co-operate with other human beings in a common service."

Congress Pleased; Wilson Delighted.

When the much heralded incident was over congress seemed pleased, and the president was delighted. He expressed himself to friends as impressed with the dignity of the occasion, and some of his confidants later declared that he left the capitol greatly relieved to think that, after all, his precedent-smashing had not been such a cataclysmic thing as some older heads had predicted.

The president's visit to the capitol was brief, lasting about a quarter of an hour. Leaving a cabinet meeting at the white house, he started on his mission at 12:45 o'clock. No one except a secret service man accompanied him. He rode in a white house automobile and five minutes later was driven through the crowds assembled about the capitol. At 12:54 o'clock he reached Speaker Clark's room just off the house chamber, where a joint committee of senators and representatives welcomed him. They were Senators Kern, Bacon and Gallinger and Representatives Underwood, Palmer and Mann. The president spoke to each for a moment and was informed that the senate and house awaited him. He said he was ready and the committee started for the door of the house chamber, the president on Senator Bacon's right.

Wilson Escorted By Bacon.

At two minutes before 1 o'clock the president entered the chamber. Members of the house and senate rose as Speaker Clark brought down the gavel. From the floor and galleries distinguished guests looked on at the scene. Ambassadors from many lands were in the audience, members of the cabinet were there and all the people who possibly could get in were present to witness the proceeding.

President Wilson, escorted by Senator Bacon, bowed acknowledgment to the applause and mounted the speaker's stand to the journal clerk's desk, directly in front of the speaker.

With a smile, as he began to speak, the president told his hearers why he had come. He said he was glad to verify for himself the impression that the president of the United States was a person. He was speaking in an ordinary tone of voice, just as though he were talking to a senator in his office. The crowded chamber was hushed after the momentary thrills of conversation upon his entrance had ebbed away. Every eye was fixed upon him as he spoke and it was instantly apparent that he had aroused the keenest interest.

As the president proceeded with his preliminary statement averring that he was not a mere department of government, but human, and that he had come to speak naturally with his fellowmen, the interest was tense.

"After this pleasant experience," the president said, "I shall feel quite normal in all our dealings with one another."

And the Applause Began.

As these words fell from the president's lips the house and senate applauded. Then the gallery joine din. Mrs. Wilson and the president's daughters and other relatives joined from the executive gallery. Ambassador Bryce, of England, looked on with evident interest. So did Ambassador Jusserand, of France, and representatives from other nations. Where a few moments before the event had seemed unusual, almost unreal, it now appeared perfectly adjusted to conditions and not at all dramatic.

The applause subsiding, the president began to read his brief message on the tariff. He spoke slowly and forcefully and in less than eight minutes he was done. No interruption occurred and he left the stand immediately while the congress applauded.

In the speaker's room again President Wilson chatted for a few moments with the members of the committee and, accompanied by Secretary Tumulty, left the capitol at 1:10 o'clock. At 1:18, half an hour after, he had left the cabinet meeting, he was at luncheon in the white house, ready for the business of the afternoon.

IT'S CLEAR COUNTRY EXPECTS TARIFF DUTIES TO BE CHANGED, DECLARES PRESIDENT WILSON

Washington, April 8.—President Wilson began his message as follows:

"I am very glad indeed to have this opportunity to address the two houses directly and to verify for myself the impression that the president of the United States is a person, not a mere department o fthe government hailing congress from some isolated island of jealous power, sending messages, not speaking naturally and with his own voice, that he is a human being trying to co-operate with other human beings in a common service. After this pleasant experience I shall feel quite normal in all our dealings with one another."

Text of the Message.

The president then proceeded with the text of his message as follows:

"To the Senate and House of Representatives:

"I have called the congress together in extraordinary session because a duty was laid upon the party now in power at the recent elections which it ought to perform promptly, in order that the burden carried by the people under existing law may be lightened as soon as possible and in order, also, that the business interests of the country may not be kept too long in suspense as to what the fiscal changes are to be to which they will be required to adjust themselves. It is clear that the whole country expects the tariff duties to be altered. They must be changed to meet the radical alteration in the conditions of our economic life which the country has witnessed within the last generation. While the whole face and method of our industrial and commercial life were being changed beyond recognition the tariff schedules have remained what they were before the change began, or have moved in the direction they were given when no large circumstance of our industrial development was what it is today. Our task is to square them with the actual facts. The sooner that is done the sooner we shall escape from suffering from the facts and the sooner our men of business will be free to thrive by the law of nature (the nature of free business) instead of by the law of legislation and artificial arrangement.

Patronage, Not Protection.

"We have seen tariff legislation wander very far afield in our day—very far indeed from the field in which our prosperity might have had a normal growth and stimulation. No one who looks the facts squarely in the face or knows anything that lies beneath the surface of action can fail to perceive the principles upon which recent tariff legislation has been based. We long ago passed beyond the modest notion of 'protecting' the industries of the country, and moved boldly forward to the idea that they were entitled to the direct patronage of the government. For a long time—a time so long that the men now active in public policy hardly remember the conditions that preceded it—we have sought in our tariff schedules to give each group of manufacturers or producers what they themselves thought that they needed in order to maintain a practically exclusive market as against the rest of the world. Consciously or unconsciously, we have built up a set of privileges and exemptions from competition behind which it was easy by any, even the crudest, forms of combination to organize monopoly; until at last nothing is normal, nothing is obliged to stand the tests of efficiency and economy, in our world of big business, but everything thrives by concerted arrangement. Only new principles of action will save us from a final hard crystallization of monopoly and a complete loss of the influences that quicken enterprise and keep independent energy alive.

"It is plain what those principles must be. We must abolish everything that bears even the semblance of privilege or of any kind of artificial advantage, and put our business men and producers under the stimulation of a constant necessity to be efficient, economical, and enterprising, masters of competitive supremacy, better workers and merchants than any in the world. Aside from the duties laid upon articles which we do not, and probably can not, produce, therefore, and the duties laid upon luxuries and merely for the sake of the revenues they yield, the object of the tariff duties henceforth laid must be effective competition, the whetting of American wits by contest with the wits of the rest of the world.

Go Slowly.

"It would be unwise to move toward this end headlong, with reckless haste, or with strokes that cut at the very roots of what has grown up amongst us by long process and at our own invitation. It does not alter a thing to upset it and break it and deprive it of a chance to change. It destroys it. We must make changes in our fiscal laws, in our fiscal system, whose object is development, a more free and wholesome development, not revolution or upset or confusion. We reign trade. We need the outlet and must build up trade, especially for the enlarged field of energy more than we ever did before. We must build up industry as well, and must adopt freedom in the place of artificial stimulation only so far as it will build, not pull down. In dealing with the tariff the method by which this may be done will be a matter of judgment, exercised item by item. To some not accustomed to the excitements and responsibilities of greater freedom our methods may in some respects and at some points seem heroic, but remedies may be heroic and yet be remedies. It is our business to make sure that they are genuine remedies. Our object is clear. If our motive is above just challenge and only an occasional error of judgment is chargeable against us, we shall be fortunate.

"We are called upon to render the country a great service in more matters than one. Our responsibility should be met and our methods should be thorough, as thorough as moderate and well considered, based upon the facts as they are, and not worked out as if we were beginners. We are to deal with the facts of our own day, with the facts of no other, and to make laws which square with those facts. It is best, indeed it is necessary, to begin with the tariff. I will urge nothing upon you now at the opening of your session which can obscure that first object or divert our energies from that clearly defined duty. At a later time I may take the liberty of calling your attention to reforms which should press close upon the heels of the tariff changes, if not accompany them, of which the chief is the reform of our banking and currency laws, but just now I refrain. For the present, I put these matters on one side and think only of this one thing—of the changes in our fiscal system which may best serve to open once more the free channels of prosperity to a great people whom we would serve to the utmost and throughout both rank and file.

MAYOR'S SECRETARY TURNS DETECTIVE

Frank Hammond Finds a New Witness in Fire Department Investigation.

Frank Hammond, secretary to Mayor James G. Woodward, played detective yesterday morning, and turned up Thomas Reynolds, of New York, who is said to be the man who sent the mayor a mysterious telegram from Baltimore, Monday morning.

Reynoids was located by secretary Hammond in the lobby of the Piedmont hotel, after he had watched several hours for the visitor to call for his mail. Mayor Woodward was called to the hotel, and had a lengthy conference with Reynolds.

Mayor Woodward stated after that he was positive that Reynolds was not the man who sent him the message, but believes Reynolds has some inside information as to the sale of hose in Atlanta, and will go before the fire probers and tell what he knows.

Reynolds told the mayor that he knows the name of the man who sent the telegram from Baltimore, Sunday night, but he refused to make it known, explaining that he was bound by a confidence.

Reynolds would not discuss what he knows about the fire hose scandal. He says that he is in Atlanta on a matter of business. He was formerly engaged in the fire hose business as a representative of the Fabric Fire Hose company.

Mayor Woodward will ask that the committee summon Reynolds who declares that he will appear whenever he is asked.

GROUP FOUR BANKERS CONVENE AT ALBANY

Albany, Ga., April 8—(Special.)—One hundred and seventy-five southeast Georgia bankers attended today's meeing in Albany of group four of the Georgia Bankers' association. It being the best attended meeting yet had.

The following officers were elected: Chairman, A. W. Hale, cashier Third National bank, Columbus; vice chairman, E. D. Sheffield, cashier Bank of Commerce, Americus; secretary, R. E. McNulty, cashier Comercial City bank, Americus.

The selection of the next place of meeting was left to the officers to be announced later.

The bankers met in the guards' armory in the city hall at 11 o'clock, and heard a number of interesting addresses. Among the speakers were A. P. Coles, of the Central Bank & Trust corporation, Atlanta, whose subject was "Loans and Discounts"; Dr. A. M. Soule, president of the State College of Agriculture; F. R. Nisbet, Macon; J. E. Morris, Dawson; E. A. Nesbit, Americus, and Hunt E. Smith, Albany.

The visitors were complimented this afternoon with a buffet luncheon, and were afterwards entertained at the ball park, where Albany and Thomasville played an exhibition game, being guests of both occasions of the local bankers.

BURNED HOTEL OWNED BY FAMILY IN MACON

Macon, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—The Julien hotel in DuBuque, Iowa, which was destroyed by fire early this morning, was owned by the Turpin family of Macon, being a part of the estate left by the late Frank Turpin, who died here about a year ago.

W. B. Turpin will go to DuBuque tonight to look after the adjustment of the losses. He states they stand to lose considerable money by the fire. The Julien was a four-story hotel and contained 150 rooms.

Would Examine Opticians.

Macon, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—Representative Wallace Miller, of Bibb county, is planning to introduce a bill at the next meeting of the state legislature, providing for an examining board for opticians. At the present time anyone is permitted to follow the vocation of an optician without passing an examination and as a result the bona fide opticians claim the public is imposed on in many cases.

The State Association of Opticians to meet in Athens tomorrow, will give its endorsement to the bill and urge its passage.

To Abolish Plural Voting.

London, April 8.—A bill to abolish plural voting at elections in the British Isle was introduced in the house of commons by the government today and passed its first reading by 303 to 107.

Eats Freely But Has No Dyspepsia

Takes a mild laxative with good pepsin and insures comfort and pleasure.

MRS. OLIVER YOUNG.

Fortunate is the one who can eat "anything" without suffering the tortures of dyspepsia, but as few are so fortunate care should be taken in the matter of diet. Eating slowly, masticating the food thoroughly and taking a short walk after the heavy meal of the day will do much towards assisting digestion. Any grown-up person ought to know the peculiar foods that do not agree, and these should be avoided.

When these common-sense aids fail, the next thing to do is to take a mild digestive tonic with laxative properties, and there is none better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains the greatest of all aids to digestion, good pepsin. It has other ingredients that act mildly on the bowels, which together form a combination for the relief of dyspepsia or indigestion that is unsurpassed.

Its action is to tone and strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles so that they can again do their work naturally without outside aid, and when that happy moment comes all medicine can be dispensed with. It is the best remedy obtainable for any disorder of the stomach, liver and bowels for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headaches, drowsiness after eating, gas on the stomach, etc. Thousands of users will testify to this, among them Mrs. Oliver Young, Merrill, Wis. She says: "After many years suffering from indigestion I have obtained what I believe to be permanent relief by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I feel 10 years younger, my work seems easy, my breath is no longer bad and I eat what I want without distress."

Syrup Pepsin is sure in its results, and a vast improvement over chewing or swallowing tablets and mints, or taking cathartics, salts, etc., all of which are harsh and nauseous and at best do but temporary good. You can obtain Syrup Pepsin at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

Super-Smart English Model of Granite Gray

From season to season we gather perfections. This spring it suggests not exaggeration to say that ready-to-wear suits have reached the high point of better-than-ever-before.

On the contrary, 'tis highly in evidence, and our spring suits offer a preponderance of value you have not known before.

'Tis in the quality of the fabric, and the design of the fabric; in the splendid foundation work and the elegant finish; in the linings and in the super-smart style points.

The suit of latest coming is the tangible likeness of the foregoing, with the extra attraction of color—a rich granite gray with faint bars of a deeper gray.

It's strange, when one knows the facts, that so many young men, who want snap and style in their clothes, and who appreciate the economy of quality, cling to the grandfatherly idea of made-to-measure clothes.

Clothes-making has advanced far beyond that stage; ready clothes, as we make them, are better than the average made-to-measure; at $25, for example, you'll find our suits, with fabrics, tailoring, style, and fit such as your made-to-measure at fifty per cent higher price doesn't equal. As for the very cheap "made-to-measure," it's not to be compared.

See our mark in the goods when you buy. A small thing to look for, a big thing to find.

QUAKER HERB EXTRACT AND QUAKER OIL OF BALM

They Are the Two Most Wonderful Remedies Ever Seen in Atlanta

The Health Teacher, when here, proved what Quaker Extract and Oil of Balm will do for sufferers of catarrh, rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach or blood troubles. It seems the longer this remarkable man stayed here the more wonderful are the results, for every day there are more and more reports made by people who have been cured by the use of the Quaker remedies. Some few people do not believe that the testimonials are genuine. They are subject to the severest investigation and inquiry at Coursey & Munn's drug store. The proprietors and clerks of a store would not recommend the Quaker remedies above any other if they were not convinced that it had powers that the others lacked. Ask anyone connected with Coursey & Munn's drug store what they think of these remedies. Then decide accordingly, whether you wish to try them or not. They will cheerfully answer all questions pertaining to the Quaker remedies.

Read what Mrs. Maggie Hall, living on rural route No. 2, was a sufferer from stomach troubles for about 15 years. This woman had expelled a stomach worm 15 inches long. She would bloat after meals, had headaches, nausea, belching spells, and was getting weak and thin. Mrs. Hall was being treated for stomach trouble when it was caused by this worm which she expelled. She had been trying various remedies for stomach trouble, but did not get any relief from them until she began taking Quaker Extract. After using one bottle this wonderful Quaker Extract did the work. I called at Coursey & Munn's drug store and explained that the remedy had done more for me than anything I had ever used in all those 15 years that I suffered from my stomach. It is really wonderful what a curative remedy it is. I will never fail to recommend it wherever I am or go.

When the Health Teacher was asked if he was not surprised at the quick work done by the Quaker Extract he said: "Such expressions are heard wherever and whenever I introduce these medicines. Quaker Extract is composed of pure herbs, roots, barks, berries, leaves and blossoms, and has no vile oplates or poisonous minerals in its formula.

Call today. Coursey & Munn's Drug Store, 29 Marietta Street, for Quaker Extract. Six bottles for $5, 3 for $2.50, $1 a bottle. We prepay express charges on orders of $3 or over.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

With the first congressional message of his administration, published elsewhere, President Wilson adds another precedent to the several he has already disregarded, in the very brevity of the message itself.

With this new precedent no one will quarrel. It is in striking contrast to the usual enclyclopaedic document uninteresting to both congress and the public.

The message is notable in its avoidance of detail. The president summarizes the need and the general scope of tariff revision without particularizing, serves notice on all industries that they must prepare for a new era in which they shall thrive through merit rather than federal subsidy, and wisely declares the democratic policy toward the tariff to be one of constructive and not destructive revision.

The president has stated the broad, underlying principles of the issue with admirable conciseness, and in faithful adherence to the pledges of the party.

THE REVENUE PROGRAM.

Only those whose selfish interests are affected are likely to find fault with the new tariff and income tax measures reported to the house by Chairman Underwood, of the ways and means committee. The principle observed in the earlier democratic attempt at revision downward—that of reducing the duties on necessities and raising or leaving them stationary on luxuries—has been applied to the new bill with even greater exactitude. It is well that consumers generally familiarize themselves with the liberal summary of the measure's provisions already published. They will see that nearly every item that figures on the ordinary American dining table, or that touches necessities in the average walk of life, has been subjected sharply to the pruning process. The duty on sugar, even, which is now the chief point of democratic difference, has been lowered radically and will probably be removed altogether in three years.

With the exception of one or two schedules, the measure reported by Chairman Underwood is likely to become law. Conferences between house and senate leaders and the president virtually assure that outcome. The test of actual operation will be required to determine just how far the new bill will simplify the cost of living. Undoubtedly, relief will be afforded. But the American who expects to return to the nineteenth century cost of living with the enactment of the bill is doomed to disappointment. Too many other factors contribute to our present-day expenses to justify the expectation that legislation of any sort can influence all of them.

It is estimated that the new bill will reduce treasury revenues approximately $100,000,000. The deficit is to be made up by the income and corporation taxes. The former, providing a sliding tax on all incomes above $4,000 a year, is eminently just in principle. It taxes only those able to pay, and even then according to their ability, and, as Mr. Underwood has pointed out, it exempts the average American of small income whose contribution to the government is in the form of indirect taxes on the necessities of life.

With both the new tariff and income tax bills, the democratic part has made an excellent start toward the redemption of its platform promises. The discipline and organization of the party should now be directed toward transforming these measures, virtually as they stand, into laws.

THE INHERITANCE TAX.

There is just one method of taxation fairer and more effective than the income tax the democratic party is about to enact for the nation—and that is the tax on inheritances, power to levy which congress has thus far and very righteously left as a source of revenue to the states. Straining a point, the doctrinaire might object to the income tax on the ground that it embarrasses personal endeavor by taxing success, or that it might be passed on to the consumer or to others generally. No such real or academic objections can be raised to the inheritance tax. Such a tax cannot possibly interfere with individual plans for development or the acquisition of wealth, and there is no way in which it can be shifted to other shoulders. The heirs are not injured, since the portion reverting to the state is only a portion of their legacy taken from property the title to which had never at any time rested in them.

The Constitution has lately cited instances of the productiveness of the inheritance tax in this and other countries as illustrating what a similar tax would accomplish for Georgia. The case of the Coats estate, in England, is a recent example. The estate of Sir James Coats, the thread man, was probated at $8,689,350. Of this sum the United Kingdom takes $1,337,000 as an inheritance tax—a larger percentage than is exacted by any American commonwealth. Even with this material deduction, the heirs can hardly complain at the great fortune they inherit. They have enough to live on lavishly the rest of their days, to inaugurate new enterprises, if they please, and the state is more than a million dollars better off as a fraction of the fortune built up, essentially, by the collective activities and contributions of taxpayers the nation over.

Georgia needs an inheritance tax and the next legislature should provide for it. It is the fairest of all taxes.

BRING THE SHRINERS.

All Atlantans, whether or not they are members of the order, should be interested in the movement to bring to this city the 1914 convention of the Shriners. It will be known within the next few days whether Atlanta is to entertain this very extensive secret order, numbering in its membership the very best of American citizenship. Committees from the chamber of commerce and the Shriners themselves are at work raising a fund for entertainment purposes. Fifty thousand dollars is the amount needed, and it is planned to raise this in a whirlwind campaign of a few days.

Should the convention of 1914 be held in Atlanta this city would be the Mecca for members of the order from all parts of America. From the publicity standpoint alone the convention is well worth Atlanta's while. Business has also a definite interest, since the Shriners are traditionally liberal "spenders," the bank clearings in each city they visit rising to unusual proportions.

The subcommittees now canvassing the city should everywhere meet with generous response. The privilege of entertaining these jovial Americans is one for which a large number of important cities annually compete.

The convention is assured this city, if the relatively small entertainment fund is forthcoming. All doubt on that score should be removed within the next few days.

A GOOD ROADS MERGER.

A national clearing house for all the organized highway-building energies of the United States is the object of the National Good Roads' federation scheduled to meet on the 24th and 25th of this month at Birmingham, Ala. The idea is that of Senator John H. Bankhead. Good roads enthusiasts the country over believe with him that the formation of a working alliance between the highway organizations of all America will do for the cause of good roads what the consolidation of waterways congresses has done for the rivers and harbors of the nation. When it is remembered that the congress of the United States is largely guided in its waterways program and expenditures by the recommendations of this extra-official body, the wisdom of organizing a similar body among good roads advocates is evident. Absence of organized and determined representations to congress has heretofore militated against effectual federal aid to highway construction.

Steps looking toward a federation of the road-builders of America were first inaugurated two years ago at Birmingham. Since then, the propaganda has grown rapidly. It appears that the almost innumerable good roads organizations of the nation were simply waiting the appearance of the proper sort of leadership. With its coming, they have responded with astonishing unanimity. State, city and county administrations through the country generally have agreed to send delegates to the forthcoming Birmingham meeting. Good roads' organizations, state, sectional and national, are doing likewise. Automobile clubs, farmers' associations, the government itself are actively interested. Considering that the success of the federation's program looks to the eventual gridironing of the states and the nation with highways, and to the formation of a mutual bond between all the roadmaking activities of the nation, the importance of the federation's mission can hardly be exaggerated. Here is a movement which has in view the creation of a third great system of transportation for America. No wonder it is receiving widespread indorsement. Individuals and organizations planning representation at Birmingham this month should address, "National Good Roads Federation, Birmingham, Ala."

His Welcome Song.

I.

The mockingbird in the treetop is saying:
"The spring is here;"
And he strains his throat
For a liquid note
That rises sweet and clear.
And the other birds sing to the rose:
"Mister Mockingbird—he knows, he knows!"

II.

All through the lonesome winter he sat in the silence drear,
And he seemed to say
To the dark and day:
"O, that the spring were here!"
But the other birds, they listen, and know
That spring is here, when he tells them so.

III.

And so, he is singing, singing there in the splendid light;
He sings for you
And his sweetheart true,
In the red blooms and the white;
And over the orchard this word is heard:
"It's spring in the soul of the mockingbird!"

The News From Billville.

We don't want a government office. Our better-half has gone to England to storm the jail in which Mrs. Pankhurst is imprisoned, and we're speaker of the house at last!

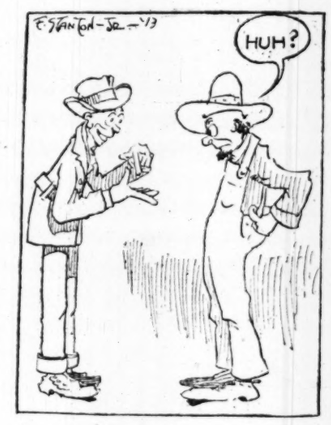

Many men think they hear a call to office when it's nothing but the bray of a Georgia mule, calling them to the plow-handle.

Our congressman writes that the tariff is coming down so hard we'll be able to hear it hit from Cape Cod to Kalamazoo.

The man sitting on the steps of an office looks about as lonesome as a hungry mule in the rain.

* * * * *

Table of the Open Door.

It's thisaway with the office—as you may have hearn before:
They's no sich animile in sight, an they ain't no "open door."
You go up thar, to Washin'ton, an' the White House porter'll frown:
If you pitch yer tent on the lawn thar he'll order you out o' town!

Oh, they ain't no "open door"
Fer the rich folks or the poor:
Mind what I say:
It ain't yer day,
An' they ain't no "open door."

You might have toiled in the campaign, thinkin' you'd sight the shore,
An' you said, no doubt, "When I'm mustered out I'll enter the 'open door;'"
But alas, for the hopes of mortals! Yer stock is fur, fur down!
For you'll hear em say: "Go on yer way!"
Oh, they'll order you out o' town!

Never an "open door"
Fer the rich folks or the poor;
Yer hopes are vain,
In the cold an' rain,
There's never an "open door!"

His Philosophy of Life.

He made Trouble so in love with Joy that the wrinkled old fellow forgot his mission and went to dancing.

He knew that the world didn't turn 'round to look at him, hence he didn't lose a minute standing still, to admire himself.

He never had to pay the fiddler, because the wind whistled a dance-tune for him and he kept time to its music.

He knew that Heaven wasn't far away, since he saw dreams and gleams of it in the eyes of a little child.

* * * * *

Before and After.

I.

A thousand office-seekers
Standing all in line;
"And ain't the country fine, boys?
Ain't the country fine?"

II.

A thousand office-seekers
Counting up the cost:
"T'ell with the government!
And ain't the country lost!"

Study of Greek.

Editor Constitution: I do not think it is improper for me to write a line to thank you and congratulate you on the admirable and unanswerable editorial in The Constitution on the study of Greek in the high school. I think it is put as clearly and as sanely as I have ever seen a statement of the attitude of all lovers of the classics. Not one of us objects to the entrance of the newer subjects (although some of us have serious doubts about the value of some of them as training), but we cannot see why our children should be deprived of the inestimable privilege of studying these things which perhaps do not help them to make a living, but certainly make the living more worth while after it is made.

Yours very sincerely,

New News of Yesterday

A Broker's Way of Rewarding a Faithful Employee.

By E. J. Edwards.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

The late Walter L. Guerney was at one time esteemed as daring an operator in the New York stock exchange as had ever been associated in speculative undertakings in that great home of speculative endeavor. Mr. Guerney was not so well-known to the public as was Charles Osborn or Addison Cammack or Daniel Drew, but that was because in his private or domestic life he was of somewhat retiring disposition.

E. J. Edwards.

Some of those who had dealings with him found him somewhat brusque, cold-blooded, never permitting the slightest sentimental impulses to govern him in a business transaction. On the other hand, some found Mr. Guerney a man of kindly disposition, often tender-hearted, and if his sympathies were aroused or his friendships appealed to, ever ready to lend a helping hand to those who sought his aid.

Mr. Guerney's estate amounted to about six million dollars, not as large an estate as was left by Mr. Osborn or Mr. Cammack, or the late Frank Work, and yet esteemed one of the great fortunes accumulated by those whose entire careers were devoted to Wall street operations.

He took an especial liking to a young man who was in his employ at one time, although he was careful not to reveal his fondness for this young man by any especial favor. In fact, it was sometimes thought that he was even more severe in his exactions of this employee than he was of any of the others who were in his office. One day Mr. Guerney stopped the young man as he was passing into his office and asked him:

"Are you saving any of your salary?"

"Yes, I have managed to save a little each month," was the reply.

"What are you doing with the money?"

"Well, I am trying to save enough to buy a plot of ground so that I can build a little home for myself. The plot consists of two lots, one of them a corner lot. If I could find somebody who could buy the corner lot for me then I could buy the whole plot and reserve one lot for my home."

"It will take you quite a while, won't it?" Guerney asked.

"Yes, three or four years, but I have secured an option on the plot, so that I think after three or four years I can buy it all."

After a few moments' silence Mr. Guerney said:

"Well, you buy the whole plot and I'll take the corner lot off your hands. I don't know anything about it, but if it is good enough for you it is good enough for me."

The bargain was made and the clerk secured his home. About ten years later as he was passing through the office Mr. Guerney hailed him and said:

"I think I have been paying taxes on that corner lot long enough. I have never seen it. Is it worth as much today as it was when I bought it?"

"Yes; it would sell for double what you paid for it."

"Perhaps so. Anyway, I am sick and tired of paying taxes upon it. I am going to make you pay the taxes after this, and the best way of doing that seems to me is to turn the deed over to you. You have the deed. I will sign a quit-claim in your favor, but I want you to remember that I am doing it because I am sick and tired of paying taxes."

That was Mr. Guerney's off-hand, unconventional way of making a gift outright of a somewhat valuable piece of land to his employee. He had been watching his employee closely for ten years, and he really looked upon the gift as a sort of bonus which the employee had gained by his faithfulness.

ARBITRATE

By George Matthew Adams.

Take the Chip off your Shoulder.

One of the surest evidences that this is a time of Progress is that we are beginning to dig out with great zest from the trunks in our garrets the old-fashioned, dust-covered principles that used to keep us mighty happy before we began to get prosperous.

The package labeled "Arbitrate," for instance.

The meanest human being likes to pride himself on his sense of fairness. It is a fundamental and primitive principle. It was not until somebody got unjust and unfair that Wars and Fighters and Disagreements started. It has always been true that those who "talked it over" in the open soon had things settled and all went back to work.

Arbitrate means to Weigh and Divide. That is, Weigh the Dispute and Divide the Blame and then forget the Dispute.

Fools always fight. Wise people always arbitrate. Because to fight is to Waste and to Arbitrate is to Save. Sometimes it is money saved, sometimes human beings—but always Character, whether the dispute is between you or somebody else or between a dozen nations.

Arbitrate. Always Arbitrate. It always pays to Arbitrate.

Here's something important. Disputes can never be without Individual Consent. If every person concerned—if YOU—refuse to fight, and the other or others take your "cue," it has to be—Arbitrate. If people would only just think before they get ready to dispute, they would not dispute. Try out this suggestion YOURSELF.

Take the Chip off your Shoulder.

Ask About W. D. Chapman.

Editor Constitution: I would like to obtain the address of some of the old Confederate soldiers who served in the army with William Dorson Chapman. He enlisted at Columbus, Ga., was captured by the Federals and held as a prisoner several months. He is now dead. I, as his widow, am entitled to a pension which I badly need and can get if I can get some of his old comrades to assist me. I do not know the company, regiment or year of his enlistment, but hope to get the information through the columns of The Constitution. Should this be seen by any of his old comrades they will confer a favor by corresponding with me.

The World's Mysteries

WHO WAS CAGLIOSTRO?

Cagliostro was the greatest man of mystery that the world has ever seen, so far as the recording of such cases are concerned. He is the recognized "king of liars." Even the name that he bore through his entire invasion of the European capitals, when he was wined and dined by kings and courted by all classes of public men, was not his own, and he had assumed the title of count. His name really was Giuseppe Balsamo, and he was the son of a Palermo peasant.

As a boy he gave evidence of the character of man that he was going to become, that of a schemer. When he was expelled from school and placed in the apothecary shop at a Sicilian monastery, he set about at once to master the science of chemistry and drugs. He had a positive genius for this study, which he was to turn to such good use later on.

Cagliostro's first step was to sell to a credulous Sicilian for sixty gold pieces the secret of a "treasure cave." When the simple buyer of the secret went to the cave to find the treasure he was set upon by "devils" and beaten senseless. For this trickery he was forced to flee to Sicily.

Finally Cagliostro reached Rome in his wandering, and there he married a strikingly beautiful woman who henceforth was to assist him in his vicious schemes of impositions. Like St. Germain, Cagliostro was also the inventor of an elixir to prolong life, and with this fake he began to trade on people's superstitions. Also like St. Germain, he said he had lived 2,000 years, and also pretended to have been one of the guests at the Scriptural marriage feast in Cana and also that he had witnessed the Crucifixion. At this time the story of the "Wandering Jew" was quite well known, and many believed that he was this traditional person.

After this scheme had spent its force Cagliostro conceived the idea of organizing Masonic lodges for women. He said he was of divine origin, and this new scheme became so popular that he was well received in the best society, being adored by the ladies.

Nor were these the greatest of Cagliostro's impositions. He claimed that he could not only make diamonds and precious stones, but could also transform all metals into gold. He was able to persuade some of the cleverest nobles of the day that they had actually seen him make diamonds and turn iron bars into gold nuggets. He was a brilliant hypnotist at an age when hypnotism was thought to be a miraculous power.

Through his various impositions Cagliostro was able to accumulate a considerable amount of money, and when he went to France he shortly became the most talked of man in that country. His vast wealth, his charities, etc., led a number of sensible people to imagine he could make gold. In fact, some of his accomplishments are hard to explain. One day he announced to Paris that Maria Theresa, the empress of Austria, had died. At that time communication between countries was very slow, but five days later come official news that the empress had died at the exact moment named by Cagliostro.

It was Cagliostro who was able to hoodwink the celebrated Prince Cardinal de Rohan, the grand almoner of France, and a shrewd statesman, into playing the part he did in the "Queen's Necklace" affair. For the part he took in this he was sent to the Bastile in 1786. While in prison he wrote on the wall of his cell: "The Bastile shall be destroyed and the people shall dance on the site." Within three years his prophecy came true.

Being finally aquitted of the necklace affair, he was forced to leave France, and after drifting about Europe at last reached Rome. He was condemned by the pope to life imprisonment as a dangerous foe to religion, and died in a dungeon on August 26, 1795, after having for years duped the whole of Europe, king, prince and peasant alike.

FIRELESS COOKERS

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

The fireless cooker is a restraining influence on the gas meter which is now bringing hope into many a struggling family.

It is a sort of a heat calaboose in which a high temperature can be imprisoned over night. It is a chest filled with non-conducting material, and when a pot of beans has been brought to a boil on the fire, it can be locked up in the chest and kept in a fervid and torrid condition, while the gas stove cools off and the meter folds its tired hands and rests.

The fireless cooker keeps the heat in the beans instead of allowing it to roam around the kitchen, warming up the furniture and the back porch. A modern fireless cooker will not only cook beans, but it will boil potatoes, roast beefsteak and make ambrosia out of oatmeal. More than this, the fireless cooker will take an ancient hen with wire wound legs and a gutta percha breast and will reduce her, in the course of twelve hours, to a tender and dainty morsel which can be dissected without the use of explosives.

The fireless cooker is not only taking a swat at the dizzy price of living, but it is causing bridge whist to spread faster than the measles. With the aid of the fireless cooker the tired housewife can put her dinner into solitary confinement at 1 p. m., go off to the whist club and return at 6 o'clock to find it ready for the table. The cooker will also work Sunday mornings and is thus filling the churches once more with women who have spent their Sunday mornings for years watching the oven of the kitchen stove.

The fireless cooker is merely a reversible

"Can put her dinner in solitary confinement at 1 p. m. and go off to the whist club."

refrigerator. Between the two, heat and cold are kept where they belong. If a fireless cook, who will also stay where she belongs, can now be invented, housekeeping may yet become the great American pastime.

A Little Corner of Heaven.

I.

I've found a corner of heaven,
And it is not far away,
'Tis where the smile of a woman
Makes winter dream of May.

II.

Makes winter dream of May,
And Life Love's holiday—
The smile of my Jennie,
The sweetest of any
Who dwells where the violets stay.

III.

The wealth and fame that are given
May from my life depart,
But never that corner of Heaven,
In a little woman's heart!

IV.

The light of her eyes divine
That have dreamed God's love in mine;
The smile of my Jennie—
The sweetest of any—
The light of her eyes divine.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON
The Famous Prose Poet

The Cost of Living.

"If I thought you'd ever pay for it," said the grocer, "I'd urge you to try one of these rolls of fancy cheese. They are especially fine, and people who make a practice of paying their bills have been greatly pleased with them."

"I'm sick and tired of hearing of people who pay their bills," replied the colonel. "There's no originality in that sort of thing. All the cheap, smug, mediocre people take an idiotic pride in paying their bills promptly, thus encouraging foolish extravagance. Nowadays we see grocers chug-chugging around in their doggone motor cars, burning up gasoline that costs more than diamonds, and the next we hear of them they are in the bankruptcy court. No grocer can afford to own an automobile, and no grocer would own one if people weren't so all-fired eager to pay their bills. When a grocer has trouble collecting the money due him he learns the value of a dollar, and he isn't going to fool away that dollar when he gets it. Nowadays people have the absurd habit of paying their bills on the first of each month. Thus the butcher, the baker and candlestick maker get in so much money at once they feel rich, and go blowing themselves for touring cars and yachts and dachshunds and such things, and presently the sheriff levies on their blamed shebangs.

"I use my own judgment about paying my bills. When I feel thoroughly satisfied that you'll use the monye wisely, I'll pay you what I owe, but not before. I had a stern lesson some years ago. I was dealing with a grocer named Spotswood and owed him fifty or sixty dollars. He kept hinting for his money, in a vulgar, ill-bred way, every time I went into his store, and finally one evening he made a most pathetic plea, with the tears streaming down his cheeks. His wife had gone away to visit her mother, and had fallen desperately sick, and he had to go to her bedside. I knew that part of his story was true, that his wife was away visiting, so I wrote a check for what I owed him, although I felt that I might be doing a foolish thing.

"He cashed that check, but instead of taking the money to his afflicted wife, he went to a vile den over a livery stable, where they had a game of chance, and lost every cent. Just as he was about to leave the police raided the place, and, as he made some resistance, an officer clubbed him over the head, and he was carried to the police station in a wheelbarrow. When I saw him in police court next morning, with his head in a winding sheet, and heard the judge assess him a big fine, I regretted my reckless generosity, and made up my mind never again to pay a bill until I was thoroughly satisfied that the creditor would put the money to some good use.

"As for your cheese, I don't want any of it. It represents another scheme to rob the plain people. The manufacturers of that cheese ought to be in jail. They wrap up about two ounces of cheese in greased paper and tinfoil, and put a fine large label on it, and charge ten cents for the package. Anybody who buys cheese in such a form deserves to spend his declining years in the poorhouse.

"When I was young a man could take ten cents to a grocery and buy enough cheese to feed a family reunion. Twenty-five cents would buy more groceries than a man could carry home in a bushel basket. Things were sold in bulk in those days, and a man bought what he wanted and paid for it."

"It's a pity you didn't contract that habit," muttered the grocer.

"Oh, of course, you must indulge in your cheap wit when I am talking seriously. Just the same, it is this thing of buying groceries in fancy packages that is going to ruin the republic. The day is coming when the government will have to establish free soup houses in every town and village for the relief of people who have ruined themselves buying dinky dabs of cheese in tinfoil wrappers, and oat meal in pasteboard boxes, and flour in little cambric bags. The people of this generation are so fatuously extravagant they never will take into account—"

"Speaking of accounts," interrupted the grocer, "it is six months since you paid anything on yours."

Whereupon the colonel left, and slammed the door after him.

BODIES OF NEGROES MAY BE REMOVED

At Expense of $250,000 Atlanta Will Gain Fifteen Acres in Badly Crowded Oakland Cemetery.

Fifteen acres in Oakland cemetery now used for the burial of negroes, will pass into the hands of the city, according to plans that are being worked out by the cemetery commissioners.

Secretary S. P. Cronheim said Tuesday that it is the aim of the commission to furnish the negro owners of lots in Oakland with lots in South View cemetery, pay the expenses of disinterring the bodies and removal of tombs and stones to South View, which has been acquired as a burying ground for negroes exclusively.

The scheme, if worked out and approved by Mayor Woodward and the city council, will cost the city approximately $250,000, Secretary Cronheim says, but will eventually mean a profit of almost twice that amount, and increase the acreage.

Oakland cemetery is badly crowded. Space can be purchased only in certain sections of the white burial grounds, while there are several acres not now used in the negro portion.

Quite a number of societies and fraternal organizations have been trying to secure burial lots in the cemetery, but have failed on account of the congested conditions. At a recent meeting of the commission plans were discussed looking to the purchase of additional ground in another section of the city to be used as a cemetery. Plans are also being made to close some of the streets around Oakland to give more space. Recently a well-known Atlanta family paid $600 for a lot not much larger than an art square.

The commissioners will meet Wednesday afternoon. Aside from the matter of making more room for the whites in Oakland, a resolution will be prepared asking council to authorize an appropriation of $500 to place a monument over the grave of Moses Formwalt, Atlanta's first mayor. There is not a stone or other mark on the grave to indicate who is buried there.

The grave is in the lot belonging to the family of the late Marcus A. Bell. It is in an attractive section of the cemetery, and with little expense to the city it could be made a point of interest.

The meeting of the commission was scheduled to take place Tuesday, but because a majority of the members had been informed that the meeting was postponed, it was called off.

SHERIFF C. W. MANGUM IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Following a relapse yesterday afternoon Sheriff C. Wheeler Mangum, who has been ill for several weeks, is reported to be in a critical condition. After an attack about two weeks ago he apparently began to improve and it was believed then that he would soon be out again.

Sheriff Mangum is well known for his work in his church and also in the organizations of the confederate veterans and is one of the best liked men among the county officials.

Chief Zach E. Rowan, of the county police force, is another member of Fulton county officialdom who has been ill recently. Chief Rowan is now at a private sanitarium, where his illness that caused him to go to Florida in January, is keeping him from active duty. Chief Rowan is regarded as one of the most capable men who ever headed the county force and both his hosts of friends in the county and the men on the force are looking forward to his return to his post.

GRAND JURY PROBES WHITE SLAVE CASE

Augusta, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—No indictments were returned today by the federal grand jury now in session in Augusta, though it was reported from the office of the district attorney last night that the first return would probably be made today. A number of indictments are expected among which is one charged with engaging in a white slave case, which is known to have been investigated by the grand jury yesterday.

Throughout the day a number of witnesses were called into the grand jury room and their testimony taken. It was rumored around the court that practically all the cases considered by the grand jury were of lesser importance, save this one white slave case, the names of the defendants in which could not be learned.

BUMPER CROP OF GRAIN PROMISED IN HARALSON

Bremen, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—From the present indications a bumper oat and wheat crop will be harvested in Haralson county this year. There are more small grain sown than any previous year, and with no disaster to destroy the crop, the yield will be fine.

Grand Opera Attendance Records Will Be Smashed This Season

From All Parts of the South Orders Are Coming in for Seats—All the Technical Arrangements Complete.

At a well-attended meeting yesterday afternoon of the Atlanta Music Festival association directors, reports were made which seemed to indicate beyond question that this year's opera season will not only be a success, but will be the largest in point of attendance of any season Atlanta has had. Not only are Atlantans patronizing the opera more heavily than ever, but hundreds of orders for single performance seats are coming in from surrounding cities and the southern states with every mail.

Attendant on the directors' meeting were President W. L. Peel, James R. Gray, George Wilkins, R. S. Wessels, John Grant, C. B. Bidwell, H. M. Atkinson and Victor Kriegshaber.

Business Manager Ed Hafer reported that all the technical arrangements at the Auditorium-Armory were progressing splendidly, and that facilities for making the public comfortable this year would be better than ever. Business Manager Harvey Johnson, who has charge of the out-of-town sale of tickets, reported that orders were coming practically from every southern state, some from as far up as North Carolina, many from Louisiana and Texas.

The free grand opera concerts which are being given this week at the Auditorium are attracting hundreds of people. Last night Dr. Starnes gave a masterly interpretation of the principal motifs from Tosca on the organ, and delivered an interesting explanatory lecture. Tonight at 8:30 the subject will be Traviata.

M'CLELLAND IS READY TO GIVE HIS PROOFS

Alderman Declares, However, He Will Not Name Aldermen Until Committee Is Approved.

Until Mayor Woodward approves the resolution which provides for an investigation of his sensational charges Alderman John E. McClelland says he will not make a public statement. He says he wants council's committee to be approved by the mayor, and when the committee starts the investigation he will lay before it the proofs he has against three aldermen now serving and one who recently left council.

Alderman McClelland says he will not stand for a "whitewash" by any committee. He declares that he is satisfied with the committee appointed by Mayor Pro Tem. Warren Monday afternoon, but is disappointed because council refused to allow Mayor Woodward to name five disinterested citizens to act with the committee during the investigation.

Mayor Woodward also said that he was not pleased with the refusal of council to consent to five citizens serving on the committee. He says that council has placed itself in the attitude of investigating its own conduct.

He will nevertheless approve the resolution demanding the probe, also the committee appointed at the meeting of council.

MUSICAS IN ATLANTA

Famous Italian Swindlers Spend Day in Police Station.

Police headquarters yesterday imprisoned four of the most widely famous captives it has sheltered in its interesting history. They were the four Musicas, arrested in New Orleans for perpetrating the sensational $1,000,000 hair swindle recently in New York. Two New York detectives are returning them to that city for trial.

Their names are down on the police blotter as Antonio Musica and his three sons, Philip, Arthur and George Musica. They are in charge of Detectives Barney Flood and Edmund Leigh. The two daughters, Grace and Lucy, were left behind in New Orleans.

The prisoners are reticent and uncommunicative, and the only answer to questions put to them by reporters were low growls and warnings in Italian to the other not to speak. The crime they are accused of having committed was grand larceny in connection with borrowing $901,000 on supposedly valuable shipments of human hair.

They will be carried to New York today.

FAITH SUED FOR $200 BY METROPOLITAN CLUB

Charging that John Faith, whose address is given as 141 Flat Shoals road, appropriated to his own use $200 of the club's funds while h ewas manager from April, 1911, until January 11, 1913, the Metropolitan club brought suit yesterday in superior court against Faith for $200 with interest.

The petition, which was filed by Attorney Mark Bolding, asserts that while Faith was manager he received a salary of $150 per month for part of the time and later was raised to $175 per month. It also states that he became manager upon the organization of the club.

Through its petition the Metropolitan club declares that the manager's salary was paid in full for the entire time he served and that the money which is alleged to have taken, was in addition to the salary. It is charged that the money was taken without the knowledge or consent of the club officials, and was taken out in various sums between the dates mentioned.

THREE-LEGGED CHICKEN HATCHED OUT TUESDAY

A chicken with three legs is the latest Atlanta curiosity. It was hatched out yesterday morning by a brown Leghorn hen owned by W. G. Cooper, who lives on Dell street, Capitol View.

The chicken was brought to The Constitution office by W. A. Pursley, Mr. Cooper's business partner. It is a Brown Leghorn, and besides tht two natural legs, has a third slightly in the rear of and between the two. It appeared to be strong and healthy when first hatched, but later showed signs of weakness and it will probaly die.

CAMPAIGN PLANNED TO SHOW ATLANTANS MANY USES OF ICE

Lots of jokes on the ice man, much of the alleged humor on the size of the lump, will be eliminated if the unthinking public only knew the real value of ice, how to use it, and how to conserve it.

At least that's what the ice manufacturers of the country think, and they are going to try to stop it by a campaign of advertising which will be outlined at a meeting of the dozen or more ice associations in Chicago today, continuing Thursday and Friday.

Seriously the ice men believe that there is a great deal which the public ought to know concerning ice, and that a campaign of education will result in advantages to producers and consumers, in the sale of more ice, and in its better use. There are hundreds of ways in which ice may be used, not now generally known, they say.

J. A. Rasbury, editor of "Ice," the trade paper published in Atlanta, is enthusiastic over the idea, and is confident that the meeting today will act favorably on it.

"For several years past 'Ice' has been working for just this character of national advertising among the ice manufacturers," said he, Tuesday. "About two years ago we interested Mr. Sparrow, of Birmingham, himself an advertising expert; and he contributed a series of forceful articles containing just the arguments we believed to be most effective Lately he has had the assistance of R. W. Barnes, of Selma, Ala., secretary of the Southern Ice exchange, and other prominent ice men, as well as trade papers. The Southern Ice exchange is the one which gave actual life to the national movement. It is one of the several that will be represented in Chicago.

"Its aim will be broadly educational. I anticipate. It will strive to show the public the best uses to which ice can be put, and so to benefit the manufacturers as well by increasing the consumption of their product."

"I HAVE NOT STATED THAT I WOULD QUIT," SAYS HENRY JACKSON

"I have not stated to anyone that I contemplated resigning from the office of collector of internal revenue on June 30, end of the current fiscal year, or at any other time," said Henry S. Jackson, collector of internal revenue for Georgia, yesterday, when shown a story in an Atlanta afternoon paper in which it was stated that Mr. Jackson would soon resign.

Unlike all other official places in the federal building the collector of internal revenue has no fixed tenure of office. The collector alone, of all the offices, is named at the will of the president. Collector Jackson's predecessor was in office fourteen years, his initiative appointment having come from President McKinley. Mr. Jackson has been filling the place for the past three years.

MORE APRIL SHOWERS ARE EXPECTED TODAY

More April showers, and in sufficient quantity to settle the dust that for the past several days has hung over the suburban roads and made pleasure riding uncomfortable and provocation of sore throats, is due to come today, according to the forecast of the local office of the United States weather bureau.

No particular change in temperature, which rose to 65 degrees at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, is predicted, although the weather man states that the rain will have the effect of cooling things off slightly.

The present rain is coming from Texas, where a storm area has hovered and for the past two days refused to budge in its usual progress across the continent to the Atlantic coast and thence upwards to New England.

CHILD OF 3 FINDS HIS MOTHER DYING

Domestic Troubles Are Given as the Cause for the Suicide Tuesday of Mrs. Lillian Von Reeden.

A boy three years old was playing in the front yard of the John Von Reeden home, on Killian street, yesterday afternoon, when a shot sounded in the house. Impelled by childish curiosity, he toddled into the bedroom of his mother, Mrs. Lillian Von Reeden.

She stood in the center of the room, holding a smoking revolver. As the child appeared in the doorway, the mother turned aside to hide a splotch of crimson that was rapidly growing larger on the side of her waist.

"Mamma, what you shootin' for?" queried the child.

"I was only shooting at the wall," she answered. "Run along, now, and don't worry me. I don't feel like——"

"Mamma Got Hurt."

Before she could finish the sentence, the wound proved fatal. She collapsed to the floor and died before aid could be reached. Neighbors were aroused by the cries of the tiny George, who ran into the street crying:

"Mamma got hurt shootin' at the wall."

Following an investigation by the coroner, the body of Mrs. Von Reeden was removed to the undertakers, where an inquest will be held today. Suicide is admitted by her relatives, who declare she has been despondent for weeks over domestic troubles.

She was 30 years old, and the mother of three young children. Her husband, John Von Reeden, has been a resident of Atlanta for years, and operates a blacksmith and repair shop.

Leaves no Note.

No intimation was given of the woman's intentions, and she left no final note. Going into her bedroom about 2 o'clock, she found her husband's automatic revolver, placed the muzzle under the left arm and fired a single shot.

She and Von Reeden had been married for 14 years. Relatives of the dead woman say that until recently she and her husband had lived tranquilly, and no trouble had been noticed between them. Von Reeden will be summoned before the coroner's jury at the inquest today.

FLOOD RELIEF FUND HAS REACHED $8,698

All Subscriptions Should Be Sent to Constitution at Once as Need Is Urgent.

The Constitution's flood fund on Tuesday night reached a total of $8,698.32. It is expected that the fund will shortly reach $10,000.

It is urged that all subscriptions be sent to The Constitution as soon as possible. The sufferers in the middle west, many of them, are still with but scant food and clothing, and are without power to help themselves. Practically all manufacturing and business houses are either swept off the face of the earth or are still out of commission, and it is only through the generosity of the more fortunate that relief is possible.

The standing of the fund to date follows:

WITH RIFLE IN HAND HE BARS WORSHIPERS

Tallapoosa, Ga., April 8.—(Special.) When the congregation began to assemble at Beulah church, a few miles west of this city in Alabama, yesterday for religious service, they were confronted with a man with a gun, standing guard and a notice of trespass on the church door, warning all not to enter. The man told those who wished to go into the church that they must do it under the penalty of the law.

A compromise was effected, however, and the people were allowed to use the seats if they were taken from the house. This was done and the meeting was held in the grove nearby. The man was almost forced to leave.

Investigation revealed the fact that the contentious party had also taken possession of the graveyard, and had made a pasture of part of it. Legal steps will be taken to clear the matter.

Ready to Move to Atlanta When Their Indiana Home Is Ruined by the Floods

"Our home ruined! Well, that's the last straw! We've stood that climate long enough. We'll be ready to move to Atlanta next month."

This was the exclamation of Mrs. E. C. Green, of Fort Wayne, Ind., when she received yesterday a letter from her home town saying that her handsome residence had been ruined by the floods.

Mr. and Mrs. Green, who have been spending the winter at Orlando, Fla., had just arrived in Atlanta en route to their Indiana home when they received the news that their handsome residence was swamped. They had hoped against hope, prior to that, thinking that in spite of the press reports their home, which was near the river in Fort Wayne, had been saved.

"Everything ruined," said the message, which was sent by Mrs. Green's next-door neighbor. "Both our houses had about 4 feet of water on the first floor. It's just sickening. Houses will not be fit to live in for months. Dike broke in four places. Most everybody had to be taken out in boats. We were glad enough to escape with our lives."

Mr. Green, who is a real estate man, has been looking over several propositions in Atlanta in the last day and a half, and says he will very probably sell out his interests in Indiana and move to this city within the next few weeks. Thev leave for Fort Wayne Wednesday morning.

JAS. J. CONROY SERVED WITH CONTEMPT RULE

Savannah, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—Failure to pay his wife alimony that has been accumulating since January, 1911, aggravated by the fact that he instituted lunacy proceedings against her a few days ago, caused James J. Conroy to be served with a contempt rule today.

This is the proceeding that has been confidentially expected since Conroy went before Judge McAlpin in the cour of ordinary a few days ago, and swore that the woman who recently divorced him was insane. Believing that there were no grounds for the proceedings, sufficient to justify the detention of Mrs. Conroy, the court simply had Mrs. Conroy served with a copy of the writ, which requires her to appear April 16.

NEGRO WOMAN COOK HELD FOR ATTEMPT TO POISON FAMILY

Greenboro, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—Charged with attempting to poison the family of B. P. Kimbro, a negro servant girl is locked up in the county jail here.

Upon tasting a meal served by the girl, who was employed as cook, several members of the family noticed something peculiar about the food. An examination of the food was made, and it was found to be full of strychnine.

Mr. Kimbro had previously threatened to discharge the girl, and this is given as a motive for her alleged act.

The girl claims that she was given two dollars by a negro employed by Mr. Kimbro to put the poison in the food. Little credence is given this tale, however.

Reference Room at Library Will Be Kept Open at Night

Sunday attendance at the reading room of the Carnegie library broke all records in March, according to the interesting report of Miss Katherine Wootten, librarian, which shows a total of 934 visitors on that day. The magazine room attendance for the month was 7,944, while 29,699 volumes were issued, of which 4,900 were to children.

During the month there were 964 acquisitions to the library, but 402 volumes passed the stage of usefulness and had to be discarded. The public paid $170.99 in fines and fees, which went to the city treasury. New members added were 374 adults, 137 children, 10 non-residents and 4 temporary residents.

Miss Frances Newman, librarian of the Florida Woman's college at Tallahassee, was elected a member of the staff, succeeding Miss Fannie Cook, who resigned. Miss Newman is a graduate of this training school in the class of last year.

Of interest to many young working men is the announcement that the reference room will be kept open until 9:30 o'clock each night for the benefit of those who wish to study some special line of work. The plan will be discontinued at the end of two months unless it proves a success. The reference room attendance of March was 1,370, and it is believed this will be substantially increased by the new plan.

Another feature of the library work which shows constant growth of appreciation by the public is the children's story hour, where tales of Dickens are now being told. The month's attendance was 762. At the Anne Wallace branch the boys have organized a scout band and are holding regular meetings, and the girls nave formed a campfire circle.

Be no imitator; freshly act thy part;
Through this world be thou an independent ranger;
Better is the faith that springeth from thy heart.
Than a better faith belonging to a stranger.

Which is really only the Oriental way of saying that "What is meat for one is poison for tother." And we apply it to advertising this time because it is so true.

Be yourself; don't imitate another, just because you like his style. Write as you would speak to a man in your store. Let your ads reveal your personality and that of your store.

Drop superfluous words; they eat up space and don't help pay the bills. Strive for the ad that makes a man say "Um, sounds just like Jones. Guess I'll drop in and see those shirts today." That's advertising as it should be and will be if you write as you speak.

Little Girls to Conduct Housekeepers' Blue Tag Sale

A housekeepers' blue tag sale is announced by the Junior Missionary society of the First Methodist church for Friday and Saturday at the Singer Sewing Machine company, 79 Whitehall street.

The committee in charge, Miss Dorothy Arkwright, chairman; Misses Lillian Stephens, Annie Armstrong and Elizabeth Setz, invite all housekeepers to give them their patronage, and assure them they will find a host of useful good things to make housekeeping easy.

The same society, it will be remembered, held a sale last year, which furnished their customers with very helpful "working supplies," and in the year interven, the earnest little girls have acquired that much more experience, and can offer a still more attractive and more varied selection.

Brilliant Functions Planned To Entertain the Opera Guests

At a meeting yesterday afternoon of the officers and house committee of the Capital City club, plans were perfected for the entertainment of guests at the club during opera week. On Monday evening, the first night of the opera season, following the performance of "Manon Lescaut," the Capital City club will entertain in honor of the artists of grand opera and the officers and directors of the Atlanta Music Festival association.

On this occasion, Mr. Robert Maddox, president of the club, and Mrs. Maddox will be the official host and hostess. The guests of honor will be at the table in the center of the ballroom, where the repast will be served, while numerous private parties will be entertained at smaller tables in the same place. The decorations will be handsome, and the menu an appropriate one.

On Friday evening the officers and directors of the Atlanta Music Festival association will entertain the artists of grand opera and officers of the Capital City club at the Capital City club after the performance. Colonel and Mrs. Peel will be the official host and hostess. For both of these occasion club members desiring tables in the banquet hall are requested to mako their reservations at once.

The club management herewith announces that on the evenings of Wednesday and Saturday of opera week the club will also serve table d'hote suppers after the opera performances for the convenience of club members entertaining those evenings, as well as Monday and Friday evenings.

Quick service is assured, and the club is preparing to make the social end of the opera season one of notable brilliancy.

Dinner Dance at Driving Club.

On the evening of Thursday during opera week, the Piedmont Driving club will give a dinner dance in compliment to the grand opera stars, while club members will have the opportunity of entertaining at the club the same evening. They are requested to make their reservations as soon as possible to insure their adequate service. As upon a simliar occasion last year, the club will sustain its reputation for delightful hospitality. Mr. and Mrs. James H. Nunnally will be the official host and hostess of the evening.

BUSINESS MEN OF BAINBRIDGE INDORSE THE WOMAN'S EDITION

Bainbridge, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—Business representative men of Bainbridge met last night with a committee from the Woman's club and heartily indorsed the Woman's Edition of The Constitution as presented by the business manager, Mrs. R. B. Parker. A leading business man expressed the sentiment of those present by saying: "Ladies, we thank you for this opportunity of presenting to the nation the resources of our section and splendid work our women's clubs are doing."

The circulating, editorial and advertising committees actively at work are: president Bainbridge Woman's club, Mrs. Gordon Chason; Mesdames W. V. Custer, A. D. Graves, Robert Mays, J. I. Subers, C. C. Harrell, F. S. Jones, Julian Ehrlich; Misses Georgia Fleming, Mildred Hicks, Evirgiline Bower and Bertha Chason.

DECATUR BOARD CO-OPERATES WITH THE WOMAN'S EDITION

Mrs. W. H. S. Hamilton, president of the Woman's club, of Decatur, Ga., had an enthusiastic reception at the office of the Woman's Edition of The Constitution yesterday afternoon when she handed to the editor-in-chief a contract by which the board of trade of Decatur take a half-page advertisement in the Woman's Edition of The Constitution to be published by the Federated Women of Georgia.

"The board of trade were glad to take the space; they appreciate the value of this edition for exploiting communities where desirable homes are to be had," reported Mrs. Hamilton.

"After all, women are home-makers, and the home-keepers, and they will scan in every part of the state the merits of the progressive towns of the state, as presented in the Woman's Edition. "Decatur is progressive—you have only to go there to see that," continued Mrs. Hamilton, "and the club women there have made up their minds that no city of Decatur's size in the state shall have a better showing than Decatur. We already are planning a showing of three or more pages."

GOSSIP AT CAPITOL

Assistant Not Decided.

The state commissioner-elect of agriculture, J. D. Price, was at the capitol yesterday and had a talk with the present commissioner, Major Conner.

To a reporter of The Constitution Mr. Price said:

"I read a statement in the newspapers to the effect that I might appoint E. Cabaniss my assistant because of his friendly relations with A. O. Blalock, who was one of my opponents in the primary, I want to say that neither Mr. Blalock nor Mr. Cabaniss have ever said anything to me about any such appointment, either before or after the election. I have not decided yet who I will appoint. When I read the story in the papers I was like the man who read about his own death and who knew it was not true."

Want to Raise Rates.

The state railroad commission was engaged yesterday morning in hearing argument on the petition of the Fruit Belt Telephone company for permission to raise its rates 50 cents in the town of Fort Valley. The present rates are, for busisess houses $3 and for residences $1.50 a year.

The company was represented by Attorney R. E. Brown, and the citizens by Attorney Joe Hill Hall. Max L. James, secretary of the company, was present, as were several citizens from Fort Valley, headed by W. C. Wright. The citizens are resisting the petition.

The commission will reach a decision in a few days.

Resist Closing of Streets.

A case of some importance to property owners in Atlanta was argued before the court of appeals yesterday.

The case came from the recorder's court of Atlanta. Forrest Adair, executor, sought to have the Spellman seminary fined for maintaining a nuisance because of certain alleged streets being closed by the trustees.

The streets in question, it was contended, had been laid off many years ago and should have been left open. The seminary held that the alleged streets were never public thoroughfares, and that streets had been provided around the property. The recorder decided in favor of the seminary, and the case was appealed. Before the court of appeals the seminary was represented by Attorney Hooper Alexander, while Mr. Adair was represented by Attorney Alec C. King.

Near Beer Men Must Pay

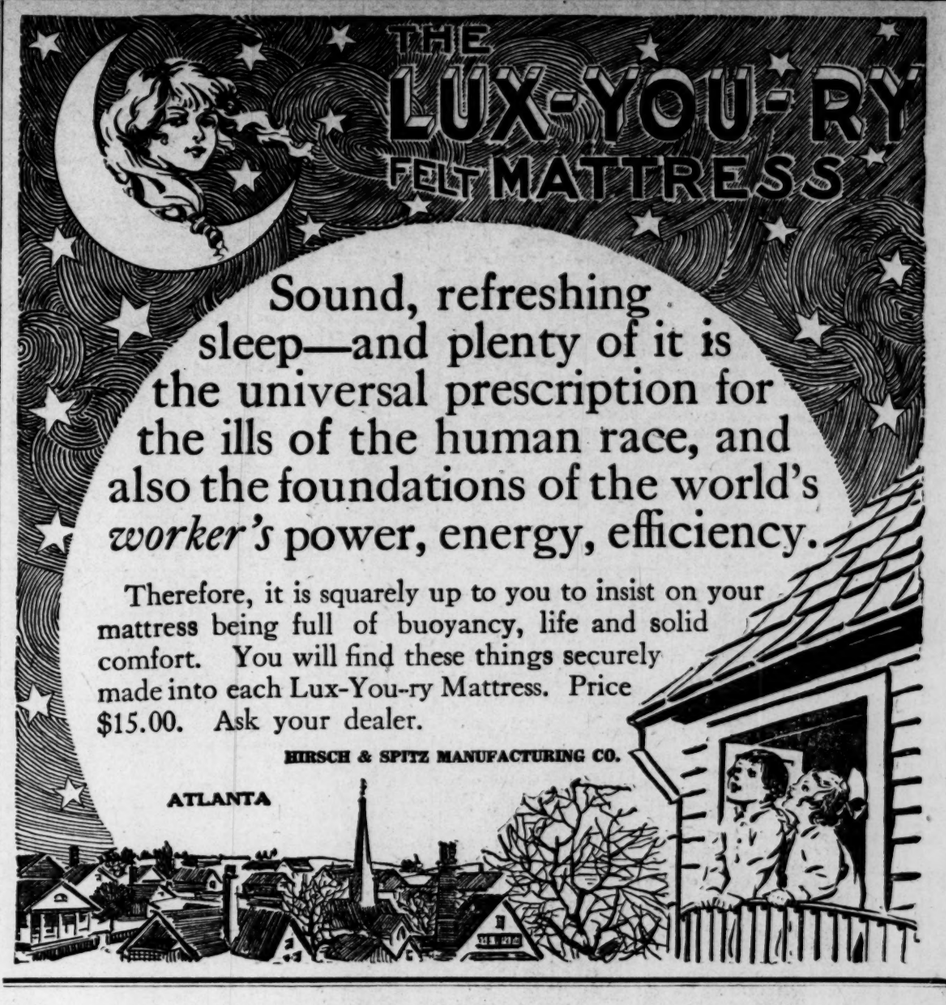

The near beer dealers of Atlanta will be looked after, so far as paying their state licenses is concerned, by Attorney Clarence Bell, who was appointed to that position by Governor Brown Tuesday morning.

Because the law requiring that near beer dealers pay their licenses to the ordinary, provides no way or means by which the ordinary could have the matter taken care of, the dealers, it is said, were very slow about paying up. The governor has appointed near beer agents for the state in all the counties where beer is sold and it believed that the licenses will now be paid much more promptly.

Wilkie C. Brown, of Chatham county, was in the state treasurer's office Tuesday and reported that since he had been appointed the state's near beer agent in Savannah, he had collected licenses amounting to $70,810. Up to date Fulton county has received from the near beer dealers only $23,900.

JAMES MFG. CO. PLANT BRINGS ONLY $10,000

Americus, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—The railway and saw mill property, one locomotive, all live stock and three million feet of magnificient standing timber belonging to the James Manufacturing company, a corporation heretofore doing business at Cobb Station, 18 miles from Americus, was sold today in bankruptcy proceedings. The only bid submitted was that of Attorney O. A. Park, representing certain creditors of Macon, and the property went for $10,000, though appraised originally at $36,000. The unsecured creditors may resist confirmation of the sale by the referees in bankruptcy although they were not represented at the sale today.

SOCIETY

U. D. C. Shiloh Day.

On Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Atlanta chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, will celebrate Shiloh day. This day is one of unusual interest as the Battle of Shiloh was one of the important in the war between the states, and many of the south's best and dearest are buried on that battlefield near Pittsburg Landing, on the Tennessee river, in Tennessee. Many handsome mouments are at Shiloh to commemorate the valor of the federals, but no shaft has been placed to honor our southern heroes. This is not the Georgia division work alone, but on the request of the little Shiloh chapter of Savannah, Tenn., who started this task and found it too great for them. The general convention responded eagerly, and in a short time now, it is hoped that a fitting memorial will be erected. The inscriptions upon that monument will tell to the world the wonderful story of the southern boys in gray.

At the Norfolk convention the president general was appointed a director for every state represented in the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The director for Georgia is Mrs. John K. Ottley, who has proven herself such an able leader in all organizations. Her untiring energy and helpful words have won for her the hearty co-operation of her fellow workers.

ORME RESTING WELL AFTER AN OPERATION

A. J. Orme, of Jackson & Orme, one of the most well-known members of the Atlanta bar, was operated on Monday afternoon at the Piedmont sanitarium. The operation was quite successful and last night at Mr. Orme's home, 915 Peachtree street, it was stated that he was resting comfortably and in no danger.

GRAND OPERA HEARD ON VICTOR-VICTROLA

Large Crowd Hears "Manon" at Phillips & Crew on Tuesday Afternoon.

An audience of several hundred Atlanta music lovers, composed chiefly of beautifully gowned women, since it happened to be a matinee, heard a remarkable grand opera concert at the Phillips & Crew company yesterday afternoon.

It was the first of a series of Victor-Victrola recitals and interpretative readings by Miss Dora Hood, bearing on the coming of Metropolitan opera season.

The subject was "Manon Lescaut" and the wonderful music was heard with breathless interest. Madame Frances Alda, as Manon, was heard to splendid advantage on several records, which reproduced all the marvelous quality of her voice in such a way that it was possible almost to shut one's eyes and imagine that the opera season had actually commenced. De Gregorio records furnished the tenor numbers and there were several splendid orchestral passages.

Artistic Triumph.

So much of an artistic triumph was the recital that several times the audience showed a disposition to applaud, as if the artists were really before them in flesh.

It is probable that many who attended this recital realized for the first time that the "Manon" Atlanta is to hear is essentially different from the "Manon" they have been accustomed to hear in the past. The opera which the Metropolitan will present is Puccini's opera, essentially different from the Massenet score. The Puccini music is dramatic and human, full of color and passion. It is essentially different from the exquisite but airy and flower-like work of the same name by the French composer who has recently died.

Miss Hood's Reading.

Miss Dora Hood's interpretative reading gave a double interest to the recital, and made it of great educational as well as artistic value.

The second free recital of this series will be tomorrow evening at 8:15, when "La Traviata" will be the subject. Miss Hood will again give an explanatory reading, and among the artists whose voices will be heard on the Victor-Victrola will be Tetrazzini, Ruffo, Sammarco, Nielson and Constantino. Parts of the opera will also be rendered by the La Scala orchestra and chorus.

Saturday afternoon there will be a free recital of Gioconda, and next week there will be "Tales of Hoffman" at a Tuesday matinee; "Lucia" Thursday evening, and "Tosca" Saturday matinee.

GEORGIA WOODMEN GAIN 3,803 MEMBERS IN LAST TWO YEARS

Thomasville, Ga., April 8.—(Special.) The third biennial session of the head camp of the Georgia Woodmen of the World convened in the opera house here at 10 o'clock this morning with a large attendance of delegates and visitors.

The meeting was called to order by Consul Commander W. H. Burch, Jr., of the local camp. The address of welcome to the joint session of the Woodmen and Ladies' circle was made by Mayor Roscoe Luke, who is himself a member of the organization.

The response in behalf of the visiting delegates was made by Dr. J. W. Simmons, of Brunswick. After the transaction of routine business the meeting adjourned until the afternoon, when the regular order of business was taken up and reports heard from various committees, etc.

The report of Head Consul R. R. Marlin was listened to with great interest by the delegates, a showing what had been accomplished during his term of office for 1911-13. The membership of this organization in Georgia to December 31, 1910, was 13,529, the membership of December 31, 1912, was 17,332, showing a gain of 3,803. Interest in this organization seems to be much on the increase throughout the state, and a healthy growth has begun. Mr. Marlin has visited a large number of camps, and has been pleased by the interest taken and the work done by them.

Mr. Marlin recommended the awarding of a prize of $100 to the degree team winning first place in the competitive drill and $50 to the team taking second place. Great interest is being taken in this drill, which takes place tomorrow night, and in which teams from Atlanta, Savannah, Dawson, Americus, Elberton and other places will compete.

L. E. AYMARD FREED IN JUSTICE COURT

L. E. Aymard, who was brought to Atlanta from Montgomery on a warrant charging larceny after trust, was tried in Justice Ridley's court yesterday afternoon, and the case was dismissed. Judge Ridley said that the evidence of the state was not sufficient for him to hold Aymard under bond.

Robert C. Howard, who was brought from Montgomery at the same time and on the same charge, is held at the Tower, awaiting a preliminary trial.

It is alleged that Howard organized the Howard Safe company in Atlanta, and when the concern failed collected some $18,000 of the company's money and kept it. Howard contends that what funds he had were his personal property. Aymard is Howard's brother-in-law.

TRAINING SCHOOL WILL OPEN ON NEXT SUNDAY

The Baptist training school, which will begin its sessions at the First Baptist church next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, will be open to all the denominations who would like to take advantage of these privileges of training for service in the Lord's work. The sessions will be held every day during the week from 4:30 to 9 p. m. A free lunch will be served every evening from 6 to 6:45 o'clock. Every person in the city and community is urged to attend all these services. They can come right from their places of business to the church. They need not go home. All superintendents of the Sunday schools and the presidents of Young People's societies and the pastors are requested to do all they can to get their people to attend these meetings.

MRS. C. M. HALL DIES AT POND SPRING

LaFayette, Ga., April 7.—(Special.)—In the death last Friday of Mrs. Lavinia Tipton Hall, aged 92 years, which occurred at the home of her son, E. P. Hall, near Pond Spring, this county, probably the last surviving mother of a Confederate soldier in this county has passed away.

Mrs. Hall was the widow of C. M. Hall, in his lifetime one of the best known farmers and most prominent citizens of Walker. She was a native of Monroe county, Tenn., having moved to Poplar Springs, Catoosa county, in 1857. Two years later the family moved to McLeMore's cove in this county, where she has since lived.

Mrs. Hall was vigorous and active, both of mind and body, almost up to the time of her death. She was the mother of ten children, six of whom survive her, Messrs. J. P. Hall, of LaFayette; E. P. Hall, of Pond Spring; W. U. Hall, of Wagoner, Okla.; Mrs. R. D. Kilgore, Mrs. J. W. Lee, Kensington, and Mrs. J. F. Bonds, of Chickamauga.

Funeral services were held Saturday at 3 o'clock at the Cove church, being conducted by Rev. C. A. Hall. The interment followed at the church cemetery.

Treanor-Cobb.

Athens, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—A marriage of interest to many over the state is that of Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church at Milledgeville of Miss Katherine McKinley Treanor, of that city, to Mr. Carlyle Cobb, of Athens. The couple will be at home here after tomorrow. The groom is a son of the late Judge Howell Cobb and is a prominent young attorney of Athens.

MEASURE IS AIMED AT "RULE OF REASON"

Washington, April 8.—Senator Thomas today introduced a bill designed to provide that in all civil or criminal actions under the Sherman law, whether pending or yet to be begun, the United States courts shall interpret the Sherman law "according to its terms, language and provisions as the same was originally enacted and not otherwise."

The bill is aimed at the supreme court's "rule of reason" as introduced in the Standard Oil case.

Senator Works reintroduced his bill for a constitutional amendment to limit the president's tenure to the six-year term. Senator Sutherland rein-

SUCCESSOR TO CALVIN WILL BE NAMED TODAY

Directors of Experiment Station Will Also Hear Report on Charges Against Director.

Griffin, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—An important meeting of the Georgia experiment station directors is scheduled to be held here tomorrow. At that meeting will be selected a successor to Hon. Martin V. Calvin, whose present term expires in July. Mr. Calvin has given notice that he will not again be a candidate for the place.

Considerable speculation is indulged in as to his successor. Several prominent Georgians are mentioned for the place, among whom are Hon. J. J. Connor, the present commissioner of agriculture; Hon. O. B. Stevens, former railroad commissioner; R. J. H. DeLoach and Hon. E. Lee Worsham, the state entomologist. Captain J. M. Kimbrough, the assistant director of the station has been considered as a candidate for the place, but he has announced definitely that he will not offer for the position.

Another matter of importance to be considered tomorrow by the directors is the report of the committee appointed to investigate the charges made against Mr. Calvin some months ago by some staff member of the station. The report will be made at this time. Mr. Calvin says he is sure of exonefation at the hands of the committee.

South to Get Efficient Service Soon, Says Railway Mail Leader

"It took four years to demoralize the railway mail service in the south by the short-sighted policy of Hitchcock—It will require some time to restore its efficiency, but this will be done. The public will get the service to which it is entitled. The men who make the service will get fair treatment."

Such was the message from Postmaster General Burleson which P. J. Schardt, of Milwaukee, national president of the Railway Mail association delivered to the local association Monday night.

It probably marks the beginning of a new era in the service, of enthusiasm and cheerful labor, of maximum efficiency, therefore of quickened business in the south, with the end of Hitchcock's regime.

"You must be patient a little while," said Mr. Schardt. "Everything is not done in a day, but as soon as mortal man can accomplish it, the railway mail service will be put back to its high standard. Long hours and extra work without compensation, needless nights away from home, sleeping on mail sacks and car floors, curtailment of liberties, will come to an end.

"Mail sacks will no longer be piled high in depot rooms, for lack of men to sort them. The public will be satisfied, and the men will know, as they once did, that the service is the finest in the world."

Mr. Schardt returned to Washington Monday night for a conference with Mr. Burleson, after which he will make other trips on the game mission.

International Interest Is Shown In the Coming Woman's Edition

Letters asking for copies of the woman's edition for the Canal Zone, for the London Woman's club and for a group of Georgians traveling in Egypt brought the circulation department of the woman's edition of The Constitution to be published by the Georgia Federation into international fields, when Mrs. Arthur Powell, chairman of circulation, made her report at the meeting yesterday.

Mrs. Bolling Jones, on the same line, reported that she had received letters from eleven different states asking for subscription blanks, as the women of other states wanted to know what the Georgia women were doing.

"All eyes are on Georgia now," was quoted from a letter from Mrs. Percy Fennypacker, president of the General Federation, "and I am planning a message which I will send for publication in the edition." Mrs. Pennypacker, who has, made many valuable suggestions to Mrs. Bolling Jones, who has charge of the federation edition page, announced that chairman of several standing committees of the federation had written expressing their interest in the paper.

Mrs. J. Lindsay Johnson, editor-in-chief of the paper, made a stirring address at the meeting Tuesday, and Mrs. A. P. Coles read a letter from Albany indicating the energy of the club women of that city, the board of trade having met and indorsed the movement and agreed to advertise the city at large in the woman's edition. Similar reports were made from various points in the state where the club women are faithfully working for the Ella F. White endowment.

The report made by Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale, manager of advertising, was fine, and chairman of advertising committees made inspiring reports.

Mrs. Harvie Jordan and Mrs. Charles J. Haden will represent the Georgia club women at the forthcoming meeting of the National Council in Washington and will present there the project of the woman's edition.

Mrs. Shepherd W. Foster, who will have charge of the D. A. R. department of the woman's edition, will present the subject at the meeting of the D. A. R. in the capital city.

Mrs. D. C. Lyle, reporting for the College Park club, showed the energy of the out-of-town club, and Mrs. D. B. Gray reported for the same active club center.

13 PROVED UNLUCKY IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Husband So Good, Jury Decides Wife Should Go Back to Him.

There is much discussion as to whether or not "thirteen" is a lucky or an unlucky number, but there is no doubt in the minds of Mr. and Mrs. William Cooley. They know it's unlucky. Their's was the one divorce refused yesterday in the Fulton divorce mill when twelve were granted. It happened that Mrs. Cooley sought the divorce and that her husband had no objections to her getting legal separation, but he desired the right to remarry and entered court for this purpose.

Mrs. Cooley told the court that she and her spouse had lived very happily for three weeks after their marriage in 1911, until he came to her one day and advised her to leave him, saying that he could not be contented to live with her all the time. Since then she asserted, he had done nothing for her, and in the eyes of the law this constituted a sufficient ground for separation.

About this time, however, Cooley's plea to have his disabilities removed was taken up and his lawyer made a splendid speech, telling the court what a perfect man he was. Cooley has no bad habits of drinking, gambling or immorality, and enjoys a good reputation, according to the attorney. Other witnesses for Cooley substantiated this, and he was on the point of winning his case, when a member of the jury decided that if he was such a good husband that his wife ought to go back to him. Other jurors concurred and the divorce was refused.

Out of the thirteen first verdicts given the charges were all based upon the usual lines of cruelty, desertion or non-support, although one man alleged that his wife had succeeding in leading him to the altar by plain fraud.

The following verdicts were granted: Mrs. J. W. Smoak from J. W. Smoak, Mrs. Alice Estelle Burgage from A. F. Burgage, Mrs. Lula Thurman from Eugene H. Thurman, Mrs. Rubie B. Allen from Frank B. Allen, Mrs. Ida Sweatman from Horrace Sweatman, Mrs. Elliott Rusk from C. M. Rusk, Mrs. E. Clark from E. Clark, H. L. Luttrell from Mrs. Daisy Gertrude Luttrell, Mrs. Lena Pennington from J. H. Pennington, Mrs. Maude Dutton from Shelby Dutton, R. E. Bostwick from Mrs. Daisy Bostwick, Mrs. Nellie M. Shafer from Henry M. Shafer.

To Clean Up Bremen.

Bremen, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—Major J. J. Mangham has designated Monday, April 14, as "cleau up" day for the citizens of Bremen. The mayor is urgent in his appeal and asks every citizen of the town turn their every citizen of the town turn to their premises on that day.

CHOUINARD REPORTS TO LOOKOUT CLUB

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 8.—(Special.)—Outfielder Chouinard, whom the locals bought from the White Sox, has reported, but Thursday's opening lineup is uncertain. Gillespie will play right in place of absent Elston. Left field will lie between Chouinard and Cruise. More probably will pitch the game.

MARCAN AND ELLAM BARON HOLDOUTS

Birmingham, Ala., April 8.—(Special.)—With the opening day of the season only two days off, it has developed here recently that neither Lil Marcan nor Roy Ellam, two of the Baron veterans who were depended upon to hold down second base and shortstop respectively, have signed contracts.

COLUMBUS PLAYERS IN STREET FIGHT

Columbus, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—Henry (Bugs) Weidell, pitcher, and Fred Wasam, outfielder, with Fox's baseball team, became involved in a personal difficulty on Broad street tonight when the former struck the latter on the jaw with his fist, knocking him down.

Wasam's head struck an iron waterplug on the edge of the sidewalk cutting a three-inch gash but not fatally injuring him, although he was unconscious for some time. Weidell was arrested, probably will be released on bond.

It seems that the two men, who were on friendly terms, were "rigging" and shoving each other while walking the street, the play growing rougher and rougher until it resulted as stated.

FLEHARTY TO HURL AGAINST BARONS

Nashville, Tenn., April 8.—(Special.) When the umpire consults with Bill Schwartz in Birmingham Thursday, the boy manager is going to whisper in said umps' ear that he has decided to cast aside all sentiment that hovers around Chuck Case, and his widely discussed hardluck, and pin his faith to Earl Fleharty and his unpopular bean ball. Sentiment don't win games thinks Bill Schwartz, and with his club shot full of holes and rough edges sticking out at every angle, somebody must decorate the hurling hill who can possibly turn the Barons back.

Bradstreet's Available Supplies.

New York, April 8.—Special cable and telegraphic communications received by Bradstreet's show following changes in available supplies as compared with previous accounts: Available supplies.

Wheat, United States, east Rockies, decreased 3,272,000 bushels. United States, west Rockies, increased 65,000. Canada increased 80,000. Total United States and Canada decreased 3,127,000. Afloat for and in Europe increased 2,660,000. Total American and European supply decreased 527,000.

Corn, United States and Canada, decreased 2,537,000.

Oats, United States and Canada decreased 821,000.

The leading decreases reported this week include: Chattanooga, 50,000.

For Presidential Primary.

Washington, April 8.—The progressive party's presidential preference primary measure was introduced today by Representative Hinebaugh, of Illinois. His bill, one of the first of a long series of platform pledge measures, proposed a preferential primary for all candidates for president and for delegates and alternates to the national conventions of all parties. Representation in the conventions would be on the basis of one delegate and one alternate for each 15,000 votes cast.

CROSS AND RIVERS IN DRAW AGAIN

New York, April 8.—Joe Rivers, the Mexican lightweight and Leach Cross of this city, who met here two months ago in a bout in which Rivers had a decided advantage, fought ten rounds to a draw at the St. Nicholas Athletic club tonight.

Cross made a surprisingly good fight, improving greatly on his previous showing. It looked at first as if he had been weakened by making weight—he was down to 132 1-2 ringside—but in the latter rounds he showed up stronger than his opponent. Rivers weighed in at 133.

Rivers had the advantage in the first, second, third and fifth rounds. The fourth and sixth were about even, with both men fighting hard. The four remaining rounds went to Cross. In these Rivers appeared to slow up and was inclined to clinch, while the New Yorker tried to fight in the open.

In the opening round Rivers landed several left jabs and right uppercuts and at in-fighting, was Cross's superior. In the second Rivers landed a damaging left hook and right uppercut, Cross seemingly waiting to find an opening for his famous right swing.

In the sixth round Rivers began to show effects of the hard pace. In the seventh he tripped over Cross' foot, but was up immediately. Cross had a good margin in the remaining rounds. It was a good draw.

G. M. A. 9, Peacock 2.

Georgia Military academy defeated Peacocw Tuesday 9-2 in a fast and interesting game. It was anybody's game up to the eighth inning, when Georgia Military academy scored six runs on two hits and six errors.

Mangum, who had allowed only four hits, was succeeded by Sams, who quickly retired the side, after one run was made.

The feature of the game was the all-round playing of Captain Babb, of Georgia Military academy. He scored three runs and besides made several spectacular catches. For Peacock, Wells starred at the bat, making the only three-base hit of the game.

Cheaper Than Butter

Better Than Lard

When you order Cottolene you are ordering the best cooking fat on the market—butter, lard or cotton-oil imitations of Cottolene included.

Cottolene was the first successful cotton-oil shortening. It has "made good" for over 20 years, and is still the best.

The source of Cottolene is pure; it is made in a cleanly, wholesome manner; it makes food that is rich but does not disturb the digestion.

Cottolene

is packed in patent, air-tight, tin pails. It is always pure and sweet, and protected from dirt, dust and store odors

Cottolene is always uniform. Use it right and you will always have the same results—the best.

Cottolene is far superior to lard, because lard is made from hog fat, and cannot compare with Cottolene in wholesomeness and purity. Lard is an animal product; Cottolene is vegetable.

Cottolene is even better than butter for shortening and frying, and costs no more than lard.

Cottolene is richer than butter or lard; therefore, you should use one-third less.

HUSTLERS GRAB GAME IN NINTH

Overcome a Six-Run Lead. Homers a Feature—Final Exhibition Game—Score 7 to 6.

John Ganzel's Rochester Hustlers pulled Tuesday's game out of the fire after the Crackers had it apparently packed away on ice, the count showing the visitors on the large end of a 7 to 6 count.

It was the first defeat of the Crackers in ten games, nine straight having been won previous thereto. Evidently the scribes put the hoodoo on the trail of the locals when they commented on this when the Smithies were leading by a six-run margin.

Be that as it may, the Hustlers jumped on the offerings of Buck Becker in the last three innings, connecting for eight healthy wallops for seven runs, sufficient to win.

Buck Good—for a While.

Buck looked like a million dollars for five innings. He allowed only one scratch hit and not a run in that time. He wavered a trifle in the sixth, but came through, but the stand up session was the beginning of the end.

Ganzel used up three pitchers in endeavoring to stem the time, the first, Keefe, being driven to cover in the third inning, when the locals tallied all of their runs in a healthy batting rally.

Tom Hughes, former Cracker, pitched the next four innings for Rochester and was mighty stingy with his bingles, but was relieved from duty in the ninth to allow a pinch hitter to wield his bludgeon.

Eva Wilhelm, former Baron, twirled the final chapter and barely escaped an artistic lacing. The break is all that saved him.

Three home runs featured the pastime from a hitting standpoint, Conroy, Zinn and Long poling the circuit smashes. The Crackers delivered a couple of triples in addition, one being a near home run, Smith being thrown out on a close play at the plate.

Zinn and Conroy Hit.

The hitting of Zinn and Wid Conroy won the game for the Hustlers. These two lads had the kicks that sent across the tallies.

Beautiful fielding by the Atlanta infield kept Becker from getting hammered worse than he did, the entire quartet fielding sensationally at times and making some phenomenal stops.

Walter Keating appeared at the short field position, and the youngster was such an improvement all the way around over the man who preceded him that the fans gave the little fellow a warm reception every time he appeared at bat. He responded by kicking in with two timely bingles.

The Crackers counted all their tallies in the third session. Keating was pinked on the shoulder. Graham singled to right, Keating going to third. On the bad relay to third by McMurray, Keating kept on to the plate and Graham reached third.

Becker singled to center, scoring Graham. Agler sacrificed Becker to second and was safe at first on the third baseman's error. Welchonce forced Agler at second. Bailey kicked in with a three-ply smash to left, scoring both base runners, and Long counted Bailey ahead of him with a long drive to left for the circuit.

Conroy worked Becker for a base on balls to start the seventh. Zinn doubled, Conroy on third. Sacrifice flies by Simmons and Schmidt scored the two base runners.

Bernard walked in the eighth. Conroy then hit to deep center for the circuit, scoring Bernard ahead of him and Guy Zinn poled one to the scoreboard and jaunted around the bases.

Singles by McMurray, Bernard and Conroy, a base on balls to Zinn and a sacrifice fly by Simmons counted two runs for the Hustlers in the ninth.

Crackers Off This Afternoon For Opener in Lookoutville; Keating to Play Shortstop

The Crackers, seventeen strong, leave this afternoon for Chattanooga to open the Southern league baseball season of 1913 with the Lookouts.

The train leaves at 4:50 o'clock. The following players will be taken to Lookoutville:

Pitchers: Weaver, Brady, Price, Becker and Musser.

Catchers: Graham, Dunn, McAllister and Reynolds.

Infielders: Agler, Alperman, Keating, DoBard and Smith.

Outfielders: Welchonce, Bailey and Long.

Infielder Kernan and Pitcher Bauserwine will be left on the home lot until the return of the club.

Patten Headquarters.

Hotel Patten will be the headquarters of the local club during their stay in Chattanooga and Bill Smith is sure to hold a reception there Wednesday night. Chattanooga newspapers to the contrary, Bill Smith is popular in Chattanooga.

Buck Weaver will draw the pitching assignment for the opening game. Pat Graham will probably receive him.

Either Forest More or Harry Coveleskie will be the selection of Manager Elberfield. If the latter works, Joe Dunn will probably work behind the platter in the first contest.

The batting order will be the same as used in the final exhibition game of the season with the Rochester club Tuesday afternoon.

The locals will work out at Ponce de Leon park this morning until noon, dividing the practice hours with the Rochester club. Ganzel's men do not leave here until 2 o'clock today for Richmond.

Keating At Short.

Manager Smith made the announcement yesterday afternoon that he has decided to play Walter Keating at shortstop opening day.

This announcement will be greeted with much applause by local fandom. They demonstrated their choice by the way they applauded Keating every time he appeared at the bat Tuesday afternoon.

Keating is easily the best man of the lot. He is surer on ground balls and can throw better than either of the other men, while as yet he has not shown any tendency to stick the ball in his pocket when it is hit to him, or a man gets caught in a chase.

It was supposed by some that DoBard would get the call at short by reason of his reputed better hitting. But Keating has put it all over him with the stick in the spring series, as he has in every other way.

With Keating at short, the hole that has been there for some days past has been plugged up. And another good hitter is added to the line up.

If Keating is retained as the regular shortstop with Kernan filling utility roles and DoBard shipped back to Dayton Bill will be making the one best move.

With Harry Welchonce Bill Schwartz Thinks Atlanta Team Is Strong

Nashville, April 8.—(Special.)—Bill Schwartz, Volunteer manager, on returning from a long and fruitless trip, threw a conniption fit for the entertainment of the local fans. He went on record as not having been responsible for the trade with Atlanta, whereby Welchonce was lost to the Volunteers.

"The fans must not hold me responsible," declared Schwartz. I have always contended that Welchonce was a coming ball player. With him in the Atlanta line-up, the Crackers appear almost unbeatable."

Use Two N's When Spelling Cracker Captain's Name, Like This—Alpermann

In the future when you spell Captain Whitey Alpermann's name be sure to use two n's.

Ever since Whitey reported to the locals his name has appeared in print Alperman. Alpermann is the correct way.

The Rochester newspaper men called the local sport writers' attention to this Tuesday afternoon. Whitey formerly played with the Rochester club and they knew.

Whitey was asked about it to make it doubly certain. "Two n's is correct," was his reply.

Beauty may be only skin deep, but some people are pretty thick skinned.

"PLAY BALL"

DODGERS DEDICATE NEW FIELD TODAY

Phillies Crack Open 1913 National League Season at Brooklyn Today.

New York, April 8.—Weather prospects were none too favorable tonight for the firing of the preliminary gun of the major league baseball season in Brooklyn tomorrow, indications being that the day would be too cold for good baseball. With reasonably good conditions, however, it was expected the spacious stands of the new Ebbetts field, where Brooklyn will meet Philadelphia in the opening encounter, would hold a capacity throng.

The showing of Manager Dahlen's men to date has aroused the Brooklyn "fans." There is every indication that they will turn out in force not only to give the home team a good send off but to show appreciation of Brooklyn being accorded, by special dispensation, the center of the baseball stage at an opening game a day in advance of less favored cities which haven't a new park ready for christening. Not until Thursday will the season begin in earnest, with games in eight major league cities.

"Nap" Bucker is Dahlen's probable pitching selection for tomorrow. If the crack lefthander is not fit, Allen probably will occupy the box. Manager Dooin, of Philadelphia, had not decided tonight whether to do the catching himself or let Killifer act as receiver. Chalmers is thought to be the man he will select for box duty with Seaton or Brennan as possibilities. The regular infield of the visitors is carded to guard the diamond with Magee in left, Capron in center and either Miller or Cravath in right field. The Brooklyns will line up as in their preliminary games with the New York Americans.

Umpire Assigned.

Nine of the ten National league umpires met here today with President Lynch and Secretary Heydler and received final instructions before leaving the city for their opening game assignments. These assignments are:

For Thursdays games:

Klem and Orth, at New York.
Rigler and Byron, at Philadelphia.
Owens and Guthrit, at Chicago.
Brennan and Eason, at Cincinnati.

Emslie was unassigned and Hank O'Day was not present.

President Lynch discussed the playing rules with the umpires with a view of securing uniform interpretation of rules which may result in disputes, and cautioned the umpires to enforce the pitching rules strictly, as well as the rules governing the conduct of players on the field. No announcement was made of what points Mr. Lynch though might result in disputes or differences of opinion.

EXHIBITION GAMES

Athletics 6, Phillies 5.

Philadelphia, April 8.—In an exhibition game the Philadelphia Americans defeated the local National league team today by the score of 6 to 5. Durning, a youngster of the Americans, pitched a splendid game up until the eighth inning, when he was hit hard and the Nationals secured all of their runs, Pennock relieved him in the ninth and checked the rally.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Nationals	000 000 050—5	8	1
Americans	311 100 00x—6	10	1

Batteries: Moore and Killifer; Durning, Pennock and Thomas. Umpires, Connolly and Klem.

Cubs 12, Indianapolis 0.

Chicago, April 8.—Frank Schulte, who predicted a few days ago that he would make thirty home runs this season, today drove out two of them and materially assisted the Chicago Nationals in winning 12 to 0 a practice game from Minneapolis, champions of the American association.

At Asheville, N. C.—Ty Cobb's All Stars 5, Asheville 6.

Baltimore	000 000 000—0	5	2

Batteries—Brown and Devogt; Roth and Bergen.

Giants 4, Senators 2.

Washington, April 8.—The New York Nationals won today's exhibition game from the Washington Americans when with two men on bases, Merkle hit a fast drive over second base which took an odd bound and went for a home run, three men scoring. The final score was 4 to 2. Mathewson and Marquard pitched excellent ball for New York, while Gallia and Boehling, Washington recruits, showed good form.

"JINX" STILL ON JOB

Newark, N. J., April 8.—The "jinx" of the New York American league club continued on duty today when Chance's men minus their leader met the Newark club of the International league and were defeated in a loosely played game, 12 to 7.

In the ninth inning, Third Baseman Roy Hartzell, who has been doing sterling work in the preliminary games, was struck by a foul tip from his own bat and knocked into unconsciousness. He had to be carried off the field, but was quickly revived and tonight it was thought he would be able to play in Thursday's opening game at Washington.

To Abolish Commerce Court.

Washington, April 8.—Representative Sims today re-introduced his bill to abolish the commerce court and another to repeal the clause of the Panama canal act, exempting American coastwise shipping from tolls. He will endeavor to have both approved as caucus measures.

Wallie Smith Led Batters During Exhibition Season

Wallie Smith, the Crackers' third sacker, lead the local hitters in the eighteen exhibition games which were brought to a close with the Rochester game Tuesday afternoon.

Smith hit for a .444 average, getting 28 hits in 63 trips to the plate. Walter Keating was second, and Pat Graham third. Six men hit above the .400 mark and nine above the .300.

The team average for the eighteen games is .336. An average of ten hits were made to the game, and an average of seven runs. Forty-six of the 181 hits were for extra bases.

In addition to leading the team with the stick, Smith handled 33 putouts and 49 assists at third base without a miscue. Here are the figures:

Baseball Doing More Than Bullets To Conquer Warlike Philippine Tribes

San Francisco, April 8.—Baseball is doing more than bullets toward subjugating the warlike tribes of the Philippines, according to Elwood S. Brown, physical director of the Young Men's Christian association at Manila, who arrived from the Orient today.

Tribes that a few years ago thought of little else than an opportunity to slash the American soldier with machets are now trading their weapons for balls and bats and even the head hunters of northern Luzon promise to become "fans."

"Far in the interior of the islands," said Brown, "the natives, clad only in their loin clothes, are playing the game. Recently a company of constabulary landed on Jolo island and as they were making camp they heard through the jungle an awful uproar. The soldiers, believing villagers were being butchered, seized their guns and crept toward a clearing whence came the noise.

"There they saw a thousand natives dancing about and yelling. A little brown man was running madly toward a palm leaf that marked first base and another, afterward identified as a chief, was telling the crowd that the 'hit was fair.'

"Only a few years ago this chief had given the constabulary a lot of trouble. A visit to his shack showed that among his prize possessions were the photographs of some of the big league players.

"The entire younger generation of the Philippines is 'baseball crazy.' The American soldier who introduced the game in the islands did their country a great service."

CLUBS GIVE THEIR AID TO EASTER EGG HUNT

Among the contributors to the fund for the Easter egge hunt which the park commission will give to the children of Atlanta at Grant park on April 3 are the following clubs: Theatrical Mechanical club, $10; Atlanta club, $10; the Eagles, $10; Thetarical club, $10; the Beavers, $10.

The park commission will have the usual large number of candy eggs and several very handsome prizes.

A little push is all right, but it has sent many a fellow on the downward path.

"Atlanta Batters Formidable"

---Jack Quinn

"Billy Smith has a great ball club, one that can hit that old pill on the nose," said Jack Quinn, the spitball pitcher of the Rochester club, Tuesday morning.

"The first six men in the batting order are mighty hard men to pitch to. There are few line-ups in the country that possess such healthy wallopers as these men and many a southern league pitcher is going to find this out to his sorrow before the season ends."

Quinn is speaking from experience. He twirled the game Monday against the Crackers and was touched up for nine hits. Four of these were for extra bases.

Praise from a pitcher of Quinn's ability is sweet music to Atlanta fandom.

SIR THOMAS FILES A NEW CHALLENGE

No Conditions Are Specified. But Lipton Has Placed the Shoe on the Other Foot Now.

London, April 8.—Sir Thomas Lipton, the British yachtsman, today sent an unconditional challange for a series of races for the America's cup, and after ten years' undisturbed possession of the trophy, American yachtsmen must again prepare to defend it.

Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge was cabled to the New York Yacht club today through the Royal Ulster Yacht club. After the challenge had been sent, Sir Thomas said:

"They will now either have to race or give me the cup."

The formal challenge is worded precisely as was the former challenge with the exception of the clause stipulating the size of the boat which has been omitted.

British yachtsmen believe since Sir Thomas Lipton declares in the unconditional challenge his intention to enter a 75-footer, the America syndicate must build a boat of approximately the same length. To exercise their freedom of the terms given them by the deed of gift of competing with a 90-foot would be considered unsportsmanlike.

The building of a new Shamrock will commence immediately. Charles E. Nicholson, the yacht builder of Gosport, England, came to London today for a consultation with the challenger. Sir Thomas intends to take the present Shamrock, which won everything last year, to America with his new Shamrock.

New York, April 8.—A special meeting of the New York club probably will be called to act upon Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for a match for the America's cup.

Announcement was made this evening at the club's offices that the challenge had been received. A meeting of the flag officers of the club will be held, it was stated, to decide whether a special meeting should be called or whether the challenge should go over until the next regular meeting, until the nxt regular meeting. This This is scheduled for May 15.

BILL CHAPPELLE JOINS BENEDICTS

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 8.—(Special.)—Bill Chappelle, Chattanooga pitcher, has become a benedict. He was married secretly in Memphis Saturday to Miss Alice Owens. He returned without his bride, who will join him here after the first trip of the club.

Emory Baseball.

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., April 8. (Special.)—The Emory freshmen who, up to this afternoon, carried a perfect record, went down before the senior team by a score of 7 to 6. This had to be. Key Parryman, the New York Giant man, is captain of the senior team, and fate could not afford to let him and his aggregation go down before a non-intercollegiate class of freshmen.

The score of the second game, Junior-Sophomore, was 4 to 1 in favor of the sophs. Features of this game: two hits each by Cheshire and Stokes, Outler and Lester. Kelly stole three bases and Saxon four.

MICHIGAN TIES GEORGIA TEAM

Fierce Eleven-Inning Game Ends 2 to 2—Game Called to Make Train Connections.

By Clark Howell, Jr.

Athens, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—In the most spectacular and best played game of the local season, the University of Michigan and Georgia battled to an eleven-inning tie here this afternoon, the final score being 2 and 2. The visitors batted their half of the twelfth and were blanked, but the Red and Black were not given their chance in this inning, as the Michiganders were forced to leave to catch a train.

The visitors scored one tally in the first stanza on a base on balls, a single and Henderson's error.

This lead was not overcome by the locals until the fifth period, when two scores were registered as a result of singles by Ginn and Henderson, an error by Lavens and McWhorter hit by a pitched ball.

In the visitors' half of the ninth the fray was turned into a Gordian knot, which remained unloosened until the end of the contest. A single, followed by a sizzling triple to left center, resulted in the tying tally.

Morris pitched a good game for the Georgians, allowing only four hits, but was excessively wild, sending seven men to first via the big four route and biffing two men. Baribeau succeeded in the keeping the locals to eight hits, well scattered, and had wonderful control, while Sissler, who pitched the last two innings, was invincible, fanning the last three men who faced him.

The Georgia team seemed to have struck its stride, and the entire game was replete with stellar plays. A well-worked double steal was pulled off by Ginn and McWhorter in the third inning.

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

The realty market since the middle of last week has showed considerable brightening. Since last Wednesday the considerations of sales announced have run well over $500,000. Of these sales but few ran over the $50,000 figure, showing a healthy condition of general trading. The property which changed hands, while a great deal of it was north of Ellis street, was scattered pretty well over the city.

In addition to this several interesting leases have been announced as well as a number of new improvements.

Tuesday was productive of a number of sales announcements.

Peachtree Sale And Resale.

B. M. Grant & Co. have sold and resold the southeast corner of Peachtree and Eleventh streets, the first sale being for $25,000, and the resale for $30,000, showing an enhancement of $5,000.

The first sale of the property was made to the Central company. The resale was made to Joel Hunter. The property consists of a 2-story dwelling on a lot fronting 58.5 on Peachtree street with a depth of 150 feet along Eleventh.

Druid Hills Residence Sold.

Leon Walker has sold to Mrs. Louis Gholstin his residence on Springdale road, in Druid Hills. The price she paid was $15,225. The property is a 2-story brick residence on a lot 210 by 250 feet.

Foster & Robson's Sales.

DIRT CHEAP

SOME of the lots in Atlanta that now sell for fabulous prices could be had "dirt cheap" a few years ago.

BUY—HOLD—SELL

ARE the maxims of a successful real estate business. No reason why you, the individual, shouldn't make extra money out of Atlanta's earth while waiting for a secure investment for the money you've in bank.

AND, after all, what better investment could you ask for than right real estate? You'll find it advertised in The Constitution's Classified. Read these columns and profit—

Use them, also, and you'll profit more.

MILLIONS ARE MADE ON FARM PRODUCTS

But Not by Farmers—Conference on Farm Marketing Meets in Chicago — Consumers Bled at Present.

Chicago, April 8.—Chicago housewives today paid 2 cents a pound or from 8 to 12 cents a head for fresh cabbage. One South Water street commission merchant paid $1.50 to $2 a crate; down in the Rio Grande county on the gulf coast of Texas cabbage was rotting on the farms.

The search for an answer to that problem prompted farmers, truck growers and agricultural experts from thirty states and Canada to start a three days' inquiry here today. Cabbage is only one of the products that is causing a shaking of heads. As Edward R. Kone, commissioner of agriculture of Texas, said, somebody else is getting the money for nearly everything that farmers grow. The meeting was called to find out who gets the farmers' profits.

Officially, the assembly is known as the national conference on marketing and farm credits. It is the first of its kind. It is independent of organizations and came into being because heads of farm granges, farm experts and growers who had invested millions in land in the aggregate, saw their products going to waste while the cost of living went up and the consumers paid the bill.

After the Middleman

"The railroads aren't getting the money," said Kone. "At least we think not. The farmer isn't. The consumer isn't getting the farm goods cheaply. He's hollering about the high cost of living. Where does the money go? If to the middleman, we're after him."

Peter Radford, president of the Texas Farmers' union, said that farmers have long been restive under present marketing conditions.

"We are going after the trouble in an organized way," said Radford. "We want to know why we get only 30 cents for a bushel of potatoes which sell for 75 cents to $1 a bushel here. That seems too big a profit."

Other states besides Texas are in revolt. Warren Dunham Foster, member of the Massachusetts homestead commisssion, told why New England is supporting the conference.

"Potatoes we raise on truck farms in Cummington, Mass., are rotting in the fields," said Mr. Foster. "In Worthington, a town practically contiguous to Cummington, they sell for $1.50 a bushels. There seems to be need for co-operation between east and west."

Harry A. Wheeler, president of the Chambers of Commerce of the United States, welcomed the conference on behalf of Chicago. Colonel Frank P. Holland, permanent chairman, opened the session.

Sidney E. Mezes, president of the University of Texas, was unable to attend and his address was read for him In it the educator said 80 per cent of the people of Texas live on farms and that the state leads the union in agricultural production.

"While some progress has been made in teaching the farmer how to grow more crops," the paper reads, "little has yet been done to aid him in getting fair prices for his produce.

Injustice of Present System.

"To illustrate the gross injustice of our present marketing system, I may point out the fact that at Laredo, Texas, in our onion growing district, one day a short time ago onions were sold for 2 cents a pound; the next morning Laredo onions were sold in the open market at Austin, Texas, at 15 cents a pound. In this transaction, as you will see, the commission men, the public carrier and the retail dealer divided 650 per cent of the price paid to the grower.

"Again tomatoes were sold one day at two-third cents each in Palestine, Texas, and the next morning were sold at Austin at five cents each.

"In each of the instances cited the producer received only thirteen per cent of the final selling price, while eighty-seven per cent was divided among the railroads and the sellers. The glaring injustice of such a system is made more apparent by a comparison with the results of co-operation in marketing farm products in Denmark. In that country the co-operation society handles, sorts according to size, and packs eggs for three and one-half per cent; the shipping and selling cost form four per cent, leaving the farmer 92½ per cent of the final price paid by the consumer.

Cheap Money Is Needed.

"The need of co-operation in securing cheap money for the farmers in the southwest is as great as the need of obtaining larger returns for his produce. In many places in Texas and Oklahoma the farmer is yet obliged to pay interest of from 10 to 25 per cents, and even these rates are better than buying on time from the country merchant. In some sections without banking facilities, credit from the country merchant is the only resource. Side by side with the farmer is the cattle man, who gets money at interest rates of six to eight per cent, and the railroads, who have little trouble in finding capital at even low rates. The cattle man and the railroad man have flexible and efficient organizations and work together. The farmers, with loose organization or none at all, though possessing in the aggregate much greater wealth, continue to pay ruinous rates of interest.

"Four men with improved machinery and the help of science now produce as much food as formerly was produced by fourteen men. Where are the ten?" With this question, Henry H. J. Waters, president of the Kansas Agriculture college began his address on "Educational Aids to Organization."

"One of the chief difficulties with the present system," President Waters said, "is that the ten men forced out of the field of production have not found employment that is profitable to society, no matter how profitable it may be to themselves."

Delegates to the conference appointed various committees, which will report on Thursday, when a permanent organization will be effected.

MRS. MARIE CHISHOLM GETS A $750 DECISION

Mrs. Marie S. Chisholm, of Clinton, S. C., widow of the late Frank Chisholm of Atlanta, won $750 in her fight to secure from the estate of her late husband the year's support as allowed by law to widows. This was the decision handed down yesterday by Ordinary John R. Wilkinson, before whom the case was heard last week.

It was first believed that Mrs. Chisholm would receive $1,600 as her share from the entailed estate, as this was the amount decided upon by the commissioners appointed to investigate it. Judge Wilkinson explained, however, that the proceeds from the sale of certain Whitehall street property were much smaller than was expected and that $750 represented all that Frank Chisholm's share of the estate amounted to.

Mrs. Chisholm was represented by Batchelor & Cheatham, a recently organized law firm. Her mother-in-law, through Attorneys Etheridge & Etheridge, fought against the amount being over $600, declaring that the expenses of the young man's last illness had been so great as to dissipate her funds and that this was all that was left for the widow.

JEALOUS WIFE FINED BY RECORDER BROYLES

It was testified in police court yesterday afternoon that when Mrs. Helen Ruth Goble had entered Falk's cafe at 142 Peachtree street Sunday night in search of the cashier, Miss Beulah Dennard, and had drawn a razor to emphasize the threat against her, one of the waiters asserted that the razor was a safety and wouldn't cut.

"If you think it's a safety," the irate wife is said to have retorted, "just you draw near enough for a slash."

"Not I," the waiter exclaimed. "I've been cut even by safety razors. No close shaves for mine."

Mrs. Goble was arraigned before Recorder Broyles on a charge of disorderly conduct. She stated that she had seen the young cashier throw a kiss at Mr. Goble and that she had heard of relations between them. She went to the Falk cafe to warn the girl, she said, but admitted carrying along the razor as a matter of precaution.

After an exciting scene had been created in the cafe Mr. Falk, the manager, demanded Mrs. Goble's arrest. She was taken from the Grand theater Monday afternoon by Detective Rosser. In police court Tuesday she was fined $25.75.

NO MORE SENATORS BY LEGISLATURES

People Will Hereafter Elect U. S. Senators — Amendment for Direct Election Ratified by 36 States.

PRESIDENT WILSON GLAD REFORM IS ACCOMPLISHED

Washington, April 8.—When told today that Connecticut had ratified the constitutional amendment providing for the election of senators by direct vote, the president said:

"I am sincerely glad that the amendment has been ratified so promptly and a reform so long fought for at last accomplished."

Washington, April 9.—Direct election of United States senators by the people was authorized and made compulsory today when the Connecticut legislature ratified the constitutional amendment submitted by congress less than a year ago. Ratification already had been given by 35 states.

The situation that results throughout the country where many legislatures have adjourned until 1915 is such as to leave confusion in the minds of members of the senate, as to how the early steps toward direct election of senators will be carried out.

While the proclamation of the secretary of state announcing final ratification of the amendment by 36 states is required by law, Senators Bristow and Borah, leaders in the direct elections fight in congress, expressed the opinion today that the amendment is for all practical purposes now a part of the constitution.

"Any man who may be elected to the senate hereafter must be elected directly," said Senator Borah.

Legislatures May Prescribe Methods.

The new amendment gives to the state legislatures, however, the right to prescribe the methods for electing senators. Many legislatures have adjourned and will not reconvene until early in 1915, a few weeks before the terms of over thirty senators expire. It is expected that in many states the legislatures will adopt the plan authorized in the new amendment and direct the governors to appoint senators temporarily, until the people can elect men at regularly called elections. Special sessions of the legislatures will be urged in many states, so that the necessary laws can be passed before the general election of 1914. In some states action has already been taken, or will be before the legislatures end their present sessions, authorizing the people to vote for senators at next year's election.

The choice of a senator in Maryland for the place now held by Senator Jackson would have been made by the legislature next year under the old system. A special session of the Maryland legislature would be necessary to provide laws by which a popular election could occur next year. In the opinion of members of the senate no successor can be appointed by the governor under the new provision when Senator Jackson's term expires unless the legislature shall have especially directed such action.

It Is The Seventeenth Amendment.

The new amendment to the Constitution, for the popular election of United States senators, is the seventeenth to be adopted. It reads:

"The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote. The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislatures.

"When vacancies happen in the representation of any state in the senate, the executive authority of such state shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies, provided that the legislature of any state may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct."

The amendment primarily transfers the power of electing senators from the state legislatures to the people at the polls. To effect this change it was necessary to alter the machinery for the filling of vacancies in the senate.

For Over Sixty Years.

For more than sixty years proposals have been made to change the constitution so as to provide for the direct election of senators. It was not, however, until June 24, 1911, that the senate was induced for the first time in its history to give its consent to the change. On that day it voted to submit to the states the proposed amendment. The resolution to submit had already passed the house in a somewhat different form. Before adjournment of the session, both houses agreed to the language to be employed, and the resolution was deposited with the secretary of state May 16, 1912, for distribution among the states.

Southern senators, as a rule, fought the amendment because the federal government was given power to supervise the elections. Senator Root made a speech, in which he criticised the method employed by southern states in depriving negroes of the right of suffrage. Senator Bacon replied that the federal government was being given the power once more to enact "force bills" and send armies and marshals into southern states to intimidate voters.

The States That Ratified.

The first thirty-six states to ratify the amendment were: Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Connecticut.

HOLDEN BARS LORIMER JUST LIKE ROOSEVELT

Monroe, La., April 8.—A mild sensation was sprung at a banquet here tonight in honor of Professor Perry G. Holden, a lecturer on agricultural topics and recently a candidate for governor of Iowa on the progressive ticket, when he refused to sit in the banquet hall with former United States Senator William Lorimer, of Illinois. When it was announced that Mr. Lorimer would attend the banquet, Professor Holden retired to his room and could not be induced to attend the banquet.

There were 200 guests at the banquet, which was tendered to Professor Holden by the Monroe chamber of commerce.

Mr. Lorimer is the head of a big lumber company which recently began the erection of an extensive plant here.

GROUP FIVE BANKERS MEET IN MACON TODAY

Visitors From North and East Will Be Guests at Convention of the Association.

Macon, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—Visiting bankers representing leading financial institutions in the north and east, will arrive in Macon early tomorrow morning and will attend the meeting of Group 5, of the Georgia Bankers' association.

The local bankers are preparing to entertain their guests royally and after the meeting at the Hotel Dempsey at 11 o'clock in the morning an elaborate luncheon will be served at the Dempsey in honor of the visitors.

The meeting here is to be presided Macon county clearing house, will cashier of the National City Bank, of that place. The address of welcome will be delivered by John M. Ross, cashier of the Citizens' National Bank of Macon and the response will be made by James M. Finn, vice president of Dublin and Laurens bank, of Dublin. Manager G. C. McWhirter, of the Eatonton, president of the Georgia discuss his feature of the banking business, while Banjamin W. Hunt, of bankers of the state, his subject be-Bankers' association, will discuss the need of legislation that affects the bonkers of the state, his subject being "Financial Legisvation Imperatively Needed in Georgia." Professor Phil Campbell, of the State College of Agriculture, will speak on the "Agricultural Regeneration of Georgia."

The visiting bankers come to Macon from Albany where they attended a meeting today.

SOLDIERS SUMMONED TO STOP STRIKE RIOTS

Fierce Outbreaks Mark Street Car Trouble at Buffalo. Several Persons Injured.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 8.—An order was issued by Justice Brown, of the supreme court tonight calling upon the commanders of the Sixty-fifth and Seventy-fourth regiments to call out the National Guard for strike duty.

There was rioting in various parts of the city today in connection with the strike of street car motormen and conductors. The company attempted to operate most of its lines, but less than 25 per cent of the normal amount of traffic was handled.

Francis Murphy, 13 years old, suffered a shattered hip by a shot fired during a riot at the Walden avenue barns. Two women were seriously burned by a trolley wire when strikers trying to pull the trolley pole off an Elmwood car broke the copper strand.

Chief Regan's automobile was attacked by a mob in Broadway tonight. Several shots were fired, two of which struck the car, but neither the chief nor his men was struck. The police, with drawn revolvers, dispersed the mob.

All efforts to bring the strike leaders and the officials of the company together to discuss arbitration failed. The tie-up again tonight was practically complete.

Strike leaders expressed a willingness to submit their grievances to arbitration. The company officials took the position that they had sufficient men to operate their cars and made repeated demands on the sheriff and the mayor that troops be called out.

Scores of the company's cars were put out of commission today, and the company issued a statement in which it was said 400 cars have been damaged by mobs since the strike began.

BODY OF CARRIER FOUND

J. F. Dozier Dies of Heart Failure While on Route.

Washington, Ga., April 8.—(Special.) Lincolnton (Ga.) citizens coming to Washington today brought the news of the finding of J. F. Dozier's lifeless body two miles west of McCormick, S. C., this morning between 10 and 11 o'clock. Mr. Dozier was the mail carrier on the rural route from Lincolnton to McCormick. He left his home in Lincolnton this morning at 6:30 o'clock and was found dead in his mail cart by a man by the name of Chamberlin.

At first it was reported that the mail had been robbed and Carrier Dozier killed, but later reports developed the fact that there were no marks of violence on Dozier's body, and it is supposed that he died from heart failure. When the dead body of Dozier was discovered in his buggy by Chamberlin, he took the mail on to McCormick and delivered it to the postoffice officials and related the facts of meeting the mail carrier's horse strolling leisurely and aimlessly along the highway, and upon investigating the matter learned that death had overtaken the government employee.

Mr. Dozier was about 45 years old and is survived by his wife and four children. He was one of the most popular employees of the postal service in Lincoln county and resided in Lincolnton. His daily route was from Lincolnton to McCormick and return, leaving Lincolnton early in the morning and returning with the mail for that thriving little city about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

THALIANS TO PRESENT "THE DEVIL'S DISCIPLE"

Athens, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—"The Devil's Disciple" is the title of the play which is to be presented by the Thalians, the dramatic club at the University of Georgia, here Friday evening, the 11th, at the Colonial. James M. Lynch, of Florence, S. C., who has been prominent and excellent in several previous plays of the Thalians, will have the leading part and Miss Mary Lyndon will have the leading feminine role.

BITTEN BY MAD DOG BOY DIES IN AGONY

Charleston, S. C., April 8.—Willie Motin, 10 years old, died late last night at the Roper hospital from hydrophobia as the result of being bitten by a mad dog. The little fellow suffered terrible agony, the surgeons being unable to relieve him, though striving desperately. He went through convulsions when death approached. Efforts are being made to ascertain whether others were bitten by the dog. No report has been made of the killing the rabid animal.

TO REDUCE FORTUNES BY INHERITANCE TAX

Measure Proposed by Senator Jones Would Levy 50 Per Cent on Estates of Over $15,000,000.

Washington, April 8.—An inheritance tax that would run as high as 50 per cent on fortunes over $15,000,000 was proposed in a bill introduced in the senate today by Senator Jones, of Washington. The measure would impose an inheritance tax on all estates except where the bequest is to members of the immediate family, in which case there would be an exemption of $25,000 and a reduced tax rate.

On estates of less than $5,000, one per cent; from $5,000 to $50,000, two per cent; from $50,000 to $250,000, five per cent; from $250,000 to $750,000, ten per cent; from $750,000 to $1,500,000, fifteen per cent; from $1,500,000 to $3,000,000, twenty per cent; from $3,000,000 to $7,000,000, twenty-five per cent; from $7,000,000 to $15,000,000, forty per cent; above $15,000,000, fifty per cent.

No constitutional amendment would be necessary to impose an inheritance tax.

In the house a similar bill to that of Senator Jones was introduced by Representative LaFollette, and referred to the ways and means committee. Representative Miller, of Kansas, also introduced a bill to provide for taxation on inheritances, devises, legacies, and gifts in the District of Columbia in excess of $3,000.

THREE U. S. TROOPERS WOUNDED BY MEXICANS

Federals and Rebels Fought Near Waco and Bullets Crossed the Border.

Naco, Ariz., April 8.—With little advantages to either side state forces today alternately attacked Naco, Sonora, or were met midway by Ojeda's small federal force defending the border town. In two distinct battles during the day and a continual long range artillery duel, the federals are known to have lost forty wounded and seven killed. The state troop loss is believed to be much greater.

Twenty wounded federals were brought here for treatment by the United States army medical corps. Two died while in the hospital. Ten federals who deserted reported the loss to the state troops was great at stages of the battle where the attackers were caught in a shower of shrapnel shells and machine gun bullets.

While on patrol duty Private White, of the Ninth United States cavalry, was wounded in the hand and leg. Trumpeter Flemming was shot through the shoulder, the ball piercing body falling into his blouse pocket. C. J. Brown, another negro trooper, was shot in the abdomen while in camp. He probably will not survive.

While the state troops pressed the attack Ojeda continued his custom of striking the first blow. Throughout the day he made sallies to the south, east and west, assaulting superior forces, only to return with light losses.

The last sally was made about 5 o'clock, when a car of dynamite exploded on the railroad a short distance below the town, either as a signal or in an attempt to dynamite the town by stealth. At once the federals ordered a charge and once more met the advancing line of state troops. Occasional firing continued into the night.

OSBORNE FOR CHIEF OF INTERNAL REVENUE

President Wilson Will Nominate the North Carolina Man Some Time Next Weew.

Washington, April 8.—Among the nominations to be sent to the senate this week by President Wilson, it was learned today, will be William H. Osborne, of Greensboro, N. C., as commissioner of internal revenue, and Robert W. Wooley, of Virginia, as auditor of the interior department.

W. W. Warwick, of Ohio, member of the efficiency and economic commission, is said to be under serious consideration for comptroller of the treasury.

WITH THE THEATERS

Neil O'Brien Minstrels.

(At the Atlanta.)

Friday night the Atlanta will be open with Neil O'Brien Minstrels as the attraction. This is said to be one of the finest minstrel organizations of the past twenty years. Minstrel stars and actors who have visited Atlanta have brought this news. As a result much interest centers in the visit. This is the first year of O'Brien at the head of his own company, though he is well known in Atlanta. Seats are now selling for the engagement of the company, which includes Saturday matinee and night.

"Ten Nights in a Barroom."

(At the Lyric.)

Among this week's patrons of the Lyric there will be found two classes of theatergoers, those who years ago witnessed performances of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," when the famous old play was reckoned as one of the strongest comedy dramas, and another class of the present generation who have heard of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," but who have not had an opportunity of witnessing the play. Both classes are enjoying the performances this week.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

Another good bill of vaudeville is the attraction at the Grand this week. Pat Rooney and Marion Bent, splendid in headline position, are sharing honors with Bert Levy, the excellent artist entertainer, and other first-rate features. The bill is an entertainment that will not disappoint and the popularity of the Grand is greater now than at any time in its history.

Guests Flee From Fire.

Dubuque, Iowa, April 8.—The Julien hotel and a number of other buildings adjoining were destroyed by fire early today. All of the 200 guests and employees escaped from the hotel, but most of them lost everything. Many of the guests ran into the street in their nigh tclothing. The total loss will be something more than $400,000.

NO "ROCKY STORIES" FAVORED BY WOMEN

Democratic Dames Ban Jefferson Banquet at Which Risque Tales Will Be Told.

Spokane, Wash., April 8.—Women of the Democratic League of Spokane will not attend the Jefferson banquet here April 13, at which Governor Lister is to be guest of honor, because, according to the women, they have been told by Dr. D. C. Newman, president of the Thomas Jefferson society, that while they are invited they are not expected to attend because wine and cigars shall be served and because "rocky stories" will be told.

Mrs. Mary G. Jackson, chairman of the league, wrote today that the women would not force themselves where they are not wanted, especially at a banquet at which "rocky stories" are to be told. She wrote the women are sure Governor Lister will not participate in the banquet in any way that would be embarrassing to the women voters of the state.

Mrs. Jackson's letter concludes with the question:

"Do you think President Wilson would attend a Jefferson banquet in a state where women vote where it was announced that on account of the "rocky stories" his wife would not be expected to attend?"

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

ADVANCE IN STOCKS IN THE LATE TRADING

Effect of President's Message on the Market Was Small. Bonds Easier.

New York, April 8.—After pursuing an uncertain course with prices first above and then below yesterday's closing range, the stock market developed strength today and trading ended with substantial advance. Fluctuations seemed to be chiefly the reflection of activity on the part of professional traders, who found it about as difficult to move stocks in one direction as in the other. Evidences of underlying strength were not lacking, but operators on both sides of the market were unable to attract a following. Of the various influences brought to bear upon the market today the president's message received first attention, but its effect upon the market was comparatively small. At the time of its delivery the list sold off sharply, but the movement was short-lived and had the appearance of a bear dive, carefully timed to the hour of publication of the message. The market grew dull.

Renewed confidence was exhibited in the upward movement of the last hour and best prices of the day were attained. Reading and the copper stocks were especially strong.

The highly favorable character of the government report on winter wheat was a factor in bringing about the final upturn, although its influence was minimized by the fact that an excellent showing had been confidently expected. The same was true of the Copper Producers' figures, the March decrease of 18,000,000 pounds being in line with predictions.

The bond market developed an easier tendency. Total sales, par value, $3,110,000. United States 2s declined 1-4 on call.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, April 8.—The cotton market had a steady undertone throughout today's session, although prices at their best showed only a small advance and at no time was the bull side aggressive. The river situation and the forecast of unsettled and rainy weather for nearly the entire cotton region were the main bullish features of the day. Shorts were the best buyers; they evened up early in the morning and again late in the afternoon.

On the opening, the tone was steady and prices were 3to 5 points up. Cables were better than due and shorts were nervous over the break in the levee below Memphis. The weather map was considered ideal, but was balanced by the unfavorable forecast. Around the middle of the morning the market became dull and prices fell off under favorable crop reports. At the lowest of the day the trading months were 1 to 2 points over yesterday's final figures.

In the afternoon the market firmed up and sold 5 to 8 points over yesterday's last quotations. The close was quiet and steady at a net gain of 4 to 6 points.

Increased exports during the last few days caused much bullish comment today, as did also the improvement in spot trading in the Liverpool market. These two features and rather sensational rumors regarding a deal in the May option at times stimulated a moderate amount of buying for long account.

Spot cotton steady and unchanged; middling 12½; sales on the spot 230 bales; to arrive 625; low ordinary 9¼, nominal; ordinary 9 15-16, nominal; good ordinary 11 9-16; strict good ordinary 11 13-16; low middling 12 1-16; strict low middling 12 5-16; middling 12 9-16; strict middling 12 11-16; good middling 12¾; strict good middling 13 1-16; middling fair 13½, nominal; middling fair to fair 13⅞, nominal; fair 14¼, nominal; receipts 2,474; stock 90,210.

Dry Goods.

New York, April 8.—The cotton goods markets are quiet, most of the trading being for near by delivery and in small lots. Business in woolen and worsted goods is dull. Yarns are fairly steady, but inactive. Silks are unchanged. Jobbers are doing a very moderate house trade.

Liverpool Cotton.

Liverpool, April 8.—Cotton in fair demand; prices easier; American middling fair 7.51; good middling 7.7; middling 6.95; low middling 6.79, good ordinary 6.45; ordinary 6.11. Sales 10,000 bales, including 1,000 for speculation and export and 9,000 American. Receipts 12,000, including 9,000 American. Futures opened quiet and closed quiet and steady.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS WEDNESDAY.

New Orleans, 6,800 to 7,200, against 3,836 last year.

Linseed.

Duluth, Minn., April 8.—Linseed on track $1.25½@1.25¾; to arrive $1.25¾; May $1.26½ asked; July $1.28¾; September $1.31 bid; October $1.31 asked.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, April 8.—In all of the information which has come to the notice of a very dull market the increased demand in Liverpool from Manchester is the most important. After waiting for several months on account of tight money, the dread of a general war in Europe and a decline in cotton, the spinners are now taking cotton on a very high basis, compared with New York or the south. Our own spinners have cold goods ahead awaiting a decline in cotton and the tariff they have not bought. Now there is and has been no speculation for an advance, but if either or both of these spinners start to buy the cotton they need it would seem as though the market will advance, especially as the temper of the trade has been bearish for a very long time.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, April 8.—The market today has been steady in tone under a very small business, mostly local in character. While unsettled weather in the south and the breaking of a levee in the St. Francis basin, south of Memphis, served to restrict selling, there was no increase in general demand owing to favorable reports from other sections of the belt. The market is anticipating a large acreage and an early start for the crop, but business is held in check until prospects can be gauged more accurately.

Provisions.

Chicago, April 8.—Pork, $19.55. Lard, $10.87½. Ribs, $10.62½@11.25.

St. Louis, April 8.—Pork, lard, dry salt meats and bacon unchanged.

New York, April 8.—Beef, steady; family, $23.00@24.00. Pork, weak; mess, $21.75@22.00. Lard, easier; city, 10¾ bid; western prime, 10.45 bid. Tallow, steady.

Cincinnati, April 8.—Bulk meats, bacon and lard, steady.

HEAVY DROP IN WHEAT ON BUREAU REPORT

Market Closed at Net Decline of One and One-Eighth Cent.

Chicago, April 8.—Wheat took a sharp drop today on publication of the goevrnment report, giving promise of the greatest wheat crop record and placing the average condition of winter wheat April 1 at 91.6 per cent, compared with 80.6 a year ago. At the close prices showed a net decline of 1 to 1@⅛. Corn finished ⅝ to ¾ net lower, oats were off ⅛@⅜, and provisions ranged from 20 lower to 2½ higher.

Belief that the government report would show wheat condition to be at least 90 per cent and that it possibly would be as good as 93 per cent was entertained before the report came out. This caused early selling that carried wheat prices down ⅝@½ in the first hour. A rally took place, on buying based on firm foreign markets, but it was short-lived, for when the government's report came out, showing a condition of winter wheat that means a probable crop of 556,000,000 bushels, on a basis of 19 bushels an acre, as against a crop of 400,000,000 last year, prices steadily declined. At the close, quotations were only a shade above the low point of the day, the easing off having been aided by reports of good rains in the wheat country. Primary receipts of wheat were 444,000 bushels. Comparison with last year was not available, because of a holiday which closed some important markets at that time. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour equalled 702,000 bushels.

Corn lacked support nearly all day. After one or two feeble rallies, it closed at the low point of the session, partly in sympathy with wheat.

Oats followed the downward course of other grains.

Provisions were quiet all day, and at the close all prices showed declines, except September lard, which, under some late buying, made an advance of a bare 2½ cents.

Fine Report of Work, for Which $9,000 Was Given During Year.

For the work of the Juvenile Protective association a total of $9,010.42, of which $7,376.20 was in cash, was subscribed during 1912, according to the report made yesterday afternoon at the annual meeting by Judge W. R. Hammond, treasurer of the association.

All of the present general officers were re-elected, but some changes were made in the board of trustees. The officers are: Dr. L. G. Hardeman, president; General Clifford L. Anderson, vice president; Charles S. Northen, vice president; Judge W. R. Hammond, treasurer, and Crawford Jackson, general secretary. Mr. Northen succeeded the late J. S. B. Thompson.

The report of the general secretary showed that the association did excellent work during the past year among the boys of the junior state and that the standard of the lads is high.

The association plans to introduce before the next legislature a new juvenile court and probation bill by which the present system will be operated through the ordinarys of the entire state whenever there is need for the reclamation of juvenile delinquents. The bill was drawn by James L. Anderson, chairman of the legislative committee of the association.

The following are the trustees for the coming year: Charles S. Northen in the place of J. S. B. Thompson, deceased; Cam C. Dorsey, instead of Dr. J. L. Mann, Greensboro, N. C., whose time had expired; W. C. Whitman, instead of Frank Eastman, whose time had expired; Rev. W. G. Fletcher, St. Augustine, Fla., instead of James Buchanan, of Richmond, Va., whose time had expired; John N. McEachern was transferred from the advisory board to a trustee, instead of James T. Wright, resigned; F. M. Hudson, Tallahassee, Fla., instead of Joe S. Davis, of Albany, Ga., and Howard B. Carlisle, of Spartanburg, S. C., was also added to the board.

NEW TRUST COMPANY WILL ELECT TRUSTEES

Trustees for the Continental Trust company, Atlanta's latest financial organization, which was granted a charter on Monday, will be elected at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at a meeting to be held at 226 Equitable building. Officers for the company will be chosen by the trustees, but not until after the trustees are elected will it be known whether the officers will be chosen at the same meeting or later.

There is much speculation as to who will be selected as head of it. Joel Hurt, one of the first men to start the organization, has been suggested as head, but he declines to discuss the affair.

The stock book will close on April 15, when all allotments will be made. The company's charter provides for a capital stock of $500,000 before the concern may begin business. It is said that this sum has been reached already, but as it is the intention of the organizers to make the capital stock $1,000,000, the books are still open to investors.

POSLAM CLEARS INFLAMED COMPLEXIONS

At times when it is necessary to effect a quick cleansing of the skin, the removal of pimples and minor blemishes and the clearing of the complexion, Poslam should be promptly used.

One or two overnight applications will work wonders in driving away such affections, rendering the skin normal in appearance, for here is utilized the intensely active healing power by which Poslam effects complete cures of all eczemas, acne, barbers' itch, salt rheum, etc., stopping all itching at once.

POSLAM SOAP keeps the skin secure against disease, improves its color and texture, soothes tender skin, makes complexions clear, purifies the scalp.

SHRINERS EXPECT TO RAISE $60,000

what the Shrine convention means," said he. "But it is interesting to explain, nevertheless. It means 25,000 visitors, approximately, from among the best class of people in the whole of North America. It means publicity, festivity—and years of good results to follow.

"The Shriners who gather to play around the business session of the imperial council represent the whole of North America. They come from every state in the union, and from Mexico, Canada, Nova Scotia, and the Hawaiian islands. There are 133 temples, with a membership of approximately 175,000; and every one of those 175,000 members is eligible to attend a Shrine convention and bring with him his family, and as many friends as he wants to bring. Every Shriner pays his own expenses. Every Shriner spends money. Thirty thousand Shrine visitors spent $3,563,000 in Los Angeles in six days last year.

"With the Shriners comes multitudes of other people just as good—people who love the company of Shriners, who know what good times they have, who like to travel where Shriners travel and be among them, even if not of them. The lowest railroad rates ever listed are granted to Shriners conventions. Those attract thousands of people. Atlanta will be the Mecca of the nation for a week.

Something Every Minute.

"While the Shriners are here there will be music and marching and drilling and dancing. Something will be going on every minute. Atlanta will spend her entertainment fund upon them for banquets and barbecues and all the rest of the best of entertainment. In turn, they will serenade us with a hundred big bands, and they will delight us with the most spectacular parades, which acknowledge no superiority to the pageant even of Mardi Gras. The moving picture men will be here, snapping everything, and for weeks after the convention the stay-at-homes of the land will be seeing on the canvas what we saw in actual life.

"The tide of migration by then will set in definitely through the Panama canal. Atlanta will be a converging point of the traffic back and forth through there. The Shrine convention will photograph our position upon the mind of the hemisphere.

"Extravagant language is never in order except when one talks of the Shrine conventions. Then the truth itself looks extravagant. The simplest truth appears incrediable. But it is a fact, notwithstanding."

Organized in New York.

The imperial council of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, for North America, was organized in 1876 in New York city. Next year it met in Albany, next in New York, then in Albany twice, then in New York several times. In 1886 it went outside New York state for the first time, meeting in Cleveland. In the years following, as it grew apace, it met in Indianapolis, Toronto, Chicago, Pittsburg, Niagara Falls, Omaha, Cincinnati, Denver, Nantasket Beach, Mass.; Cleveland again, Detroit, Dallas, for the first time; Buffalo, Washington, Kansas City, San Francisco, Saratoga Springs, Atlantic City, Niagara Falls again, Chicago, Los Angeles, St. Paul, Louisville, New Orleans, Rochester and Los Angeles. This year it met in Dallas again, in May.

Last year Los Angeles raised nearly $100,000 to spend on the Shriners, spent $81,000 of it, and returned the remainder to the subscribers. This is impressive, because the Shriners had met there in 1907.

Los Angeles was so pleased with her experience that year that she sought successfully to repeat it just five years later.

Why Atlanta Wants Shriners.

Contained in that fact is the reason why Atlanta will give the Shriners $60,000 or more before 6 o'clock today.

The Shriners' convention is profoundly worth while.

A city that has had it once, wants it again.

Atlanta never has had it.

The convention has not been further toward the southeast than New Orleans.

Therefore, it must come to Atlanta next year.

PROMOTIONS ARE MADE BY CENTRAL OF GEORGIA

Macon, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—C. Baldwin, for the past year trainmaster of the Macon and Atlanta divison of the Central of Georgia railway, was tonight promoted to assistant superintendent of the same division to serve with Superintendent M. A. Ramsay. This is a new department in the road.

Julian F. Mercer, for twenty years in the dispatcher's office and for the past seven years chief dispatcher of the Macon and Atlanta division, succeeds Mr. Baldwin as trainmaster, and J. F. Horton becomes chief dispatcher of the division.

Great Strike in Australia.

Sydney, N. S. W., April 8.—The railway strike is becoming "general throughout the whole of Australia and has assumed serious proportions. Passenger service is seriously curtailed and the movement of freight is almost at a standstill. Demoralized conditions prevail. Total suspension of rail traffic over the entire commonwealth is probable tomorrow. In that event business virtually would come to a standstill and loss would be incalculable.

Southern Sociological Workers Will Be Given a Warm Welcome

W. Woods White Is Made Chairman of the Committee on Entertainment.

Preparation for the entertainment of the Southern Sociological congress, which at the preliminary meeting last year, was invited to hold its first convention here, under the auspices of Atlanta's sociological organizations, were set on foot yesterday afternoon, when forty well known men and women met in the chamber of commerce rooms.

W. Woods White presided, and was made permanent chairman of the committee on entertainments, consisting of all those present, on motion of Hollins N. Randolph. In addition a steering committee of five was authorized in a motion of Dr. John E. White, which will be appointed later.

"For the size of the city, and the percentage of white population, there are more people in Atlanta engaged in the uplift of their fellowmen than in any other city in the world," said W. Woods White, in an appeal for cooperation of all present, and the active aid of every philanthropic organization in Atlanta.

Mayor James G. Woodward was present and responded to demands for a speech, with the promise of his aid, personal and official, in making the congress a success.

Twelve Hundred Delegates Expected.

Twelve hundred delegates, appointed by the governors of sixteen southern states, are expected to be present at the congress, which opens Friday night, April 25, in the Wesley Memorial tabernacle auditorium.

Governor Ben W. Hooper, of Tennessee, will preside at the meetings. At the opening session speeches of welcome will be made by Governor Joseph M. Brown and Mayor James G. Woodward, Chancellor J. H. Kirkland, of Vanderbilt university, responding. Dr. S. C. Mitchell, of the University of South Carolina, will be the first speaker on the program.

Four days will be consumed in the discussion of topics of social work, and a feature of the congress will be the divisional meetings, led by acknowledged experts, to discuss various phases of the work, such as health, prisons, and the segregation of the social evil.

Social Evil Will Be Discussed.

The last topic will doubtless receive close attention in Atlanta, owing to her recent experience with this problem. Discussion will be led by Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, and on the program is Marion M. Jackson, head of the Men and Religion Forward movement crusade, which wiped out Atlanta's vice district.

Other speakers who have given assurance of their attendance and co-operation are Governor William H. Mann, Virginia; Governor Emmett O'Neal, Alabama; Miss Julia Lathrop, head of the children's bureau, Washington; Dr. Wickliffe Rose, Chicago; Dr. Searle Harris, Mobile; Dr. Cressy L. Wilbur, Washington, head of the census bureau of vital statistics; Dr. Charles T. Nesbitt, Wilmington, Del.; Dr. Oscar Dowling, New Orleans; Miss Agnes Morris, a Georgia woman who has been prominent in Louisiana health work with Dr. Dowling; Dr. E. C. Branson, Athens, Ga.; Dr. J. H. DeLoach, Athens, Ga.; Dr. Charles S. MacFarland, E. Stagg Whitin, Columbia university; Dr. F. Emory Lynn, Chicago; Professor Maurice Parmalee, University of Missouri, and Booker T. Washington.

Those Working for Congress.

Those present at the meeting Tuesday, and the organizations represented, were:

Mrs. Leo Grossman, Council of Jewish Women; Rabbi Joseph Levine, Professor William M. Slaton, superintendent Atlanta public schools; Major Andrew Crawford, Salvation Army; William S. Quirk, Salvation Army; Hollins N. Randolph, J. T. Rose, J. E. McCulloch, general secretary Southern Sociological congress; Linton C. Hopkins, Associated Charities; James G. Woodward, mayor; Dr. C. B. Wilmer, Leon Eplan, Montefiore Relief association; Joseph C. Logan, Associated Charities; Mrs. M. R. Emmons, Florence Crittenden home; W. W. Tindall, juvenile court; F. J. Spratling, department of city charities; Rabbi David Marx, Dr. John E. White, R. A. Sonn, superintendent Hebrew Orphans' home; Alfred C. Newell, Prison Association of Georgia; Rev. W. C. Schaeffer, Fred Houser, chamber of commerce convention bureau; Father Leon L. DuBois, Rev. George L. Hanscom, Tull C. Watters, Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, Young Women's Christian association; Mrs. Charles J. Haden, City Federation of Women's clubs, Professor T. A. E. Means, Fulton County Industrial farm; Jacob W. Patterson, Men and Religion Forward Movement; Professor K. G. Matheson, Georgia School of Technology; Dr. Claude Smith, city bacteriologist; Claude Ashley, Atlanta sanitatary department; Mrs. Fred G. Hodgson, Atlanta Anti-Tuberculosis Society; Mrs. Nellie P. Black, Free Kindergarten association, W. Woods White and Walter G. Cooper.

MORTUARY.

Charles E. Pugh Dead.

Philadelphia, April 8.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company announced today that Charles E. Pugh, a retired first vice president of the company, died this morning at Old Point Comfort, Va.

Miss Martha Kinney, Athens.

Athens, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—Miss Martha Kinney, aged about 49 years, died at her Hill street home here this morning after a long illness. She was a member of a prominent family here, being a daughter of the late Rev. I. M. Kinney. She leaves two sisters here, Misses Lizzie and Jemima W. Kinney; Mrs. W. S. Christie, of Balsam, N. C., and Mrs. Oscar Norris, of Kansas City, two other sisters, and two brothers, Messrs. J. K. Kinney, of Balsam, and H. C. Kinney, of Macon, Ga. The funeral and burial will be here tomorrow.

Deweese Dickson.

Dewees Dickson, aged 16, son of the late James M. Dickson, of Charleston, died at 8 o'clock last night at a local sanitarium. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Julia Dewees Dickson, of 250 Ivy street, and a sister, Charlotte Dickson, aged 12. He was a member of All Saints church, and Sunday school, and the pastor, Rev. W. W. Memminger, will conduct the services at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Owing to the nature of the disease—meningitis—the services will be held privately at the grave in West View cemetery.

G. W. Herndon.

The funeral of G. W. Herndon, who died recently at his home, 222 Bryant street, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Poole's chapel. The interment will be at Utoy church yard.

L. I. McChesney.

The funeral of L. I. McChesney, aged 23, who died Monday night at his residence, 301 Whitehall street, will be held at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the residence. The interment will follow at Dallas, Ga.

Van Fulghem.

The funeral of Van Fulghem, aged 24, who died Sunday at Clarksburg, W. Va., will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at Poole's chapel. The interment will be at West View. He lived at College Park and is survived by his mother.

Adolphus Luke, Maxeys, Ga.

Greensboro, Ga., April 8.—(Special.) The funeral of Adolphus Lukse, whose death occurred yesterday at his home in Maxeys, Ga., took place here this afternoon from the Baptist church. Rev. Elmer Dutton preached the funeral sermon and the interment was in the city cemetery. He leaves a wife and one daughter, and was a brother-in-law of Mrs. J. H. McWhorter, of Greensboro, and A. J. Gillen, of Maxeys.

Stinson Speaks at Sparta.

Sparta, Ga., April 8.—(Special.)—Rev. R. D. Stinson, of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial institute, preached here Sunday and spoke to his people on "The Relation of Education to Making the Masses Better." Among other things he said: "The greatest need of my child race is a common sense opportunity for a practical education, and I am glad to know that the better class among us, and that means those of us who work from Monday morning till Saturday night trying to make an honest living and to be decent in the community where they live, are seeking to have their children enter schools which pay more attention to things that are real and substantial and that aid in making an honest living with the hands, than those school: that ornament and that look out for 'rights' and to have the race appear like some one else."
